Hammett store owner fire victim 2nd time

By DWIGHT JENSEN
Times-News writer

HAMMETT — A fire this morning wiped Bert Waller out of business for the second time in his 33-year career as a store owner here.

Flames that apparently started in the basement gutted a grocery store and gas station owned by Waller and leased since last April to Ken Phillips. A grim comedy of errors destroyed any hope that fire fighters could save the building. Waller says he'll do what he did last time he was hit by fire: rebuild from the ground up.

Today's fire was discovered shortly before 1 a.m. by Chuck Ropacello, a local man driving home from work. He awakened the Phillips family, who live in a mobile home behind the store. They tried to call firemen. But Hammett has no fire department — efforts to organize a rural fire district have so far not borne fruit. Mountain Home firemen do not respond to such calls because of their own regulations, based on legal and insurance reasons.

US 93 crash kills California pair

TWIN FALLS — A California couple was killed just north of the Idaho-Nevada state line Wednesday night when their speeding vehicle left U.S. Highway 93 on a curve.

State Patrolman William VanDyke said the 1963 model sedan was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed and failed to negotiate a curve 7.7 miles north of the state line.

It traveled a total of 770 feet after going off the right hand side of the roadway — sliding sideways for 175 feet, then overturning in a ditch and rolling end over end four times.

The dead were identified as Samuel Clifford Saxton, 30, driver, Sacramento, Calif., and his wife, Carol Green Greer Saxton, 22.

Both were thrown from the careening vehicle and were dead at the scene, state officers said.

Van Dyke said the couple was traveling south when the accident occurred about 6:20 p.m. They had picked up two hitchhikers in Twin Falls and one of these called state police from Berger saying he and a companion had just gotten out of the car.

They told the police the driver was traveling at speeds between 90 and 110 miles per hour between Twin Falls and Berger and they had asked him to let them out as they were afraid of an accident.

Officers were en route to the area when they received word of the accident. County Coroner Cloyce Edwards was out of town today and unavailable for comment but state police said he was investigating the deaths further.

Another Idaho traffic fatality was also recorded Wednesday night when a car and train collided at Mountain Home.

City police said the victim was a 22-year-old Mountain Home man and his name is being withheld pending notification of relatives.

He was driving the car which collided with a train traveling east through Mountain Home.

Nixon, Connally confer

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon met with John B. Connally at his Camp David retreat today. The White House said the purpose of the meeting was to discuss Nixon's planned government reorganization and "a number of other things."

Connally, who resigned as Treasury secretary last summer and headed the Democrats for Nixon organization during the presidential campaign, is widely reported in line for a prominent position in the new Nixon administration if he wants it.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler sought to discourage speculation that was the purpose of today's Nixon-Connally meeting.

"The purpose of their discussions relate to the reorganization and restructuring of the government," Ziegler said. "I'm also sure they will talk about a number of other things. But I don't want to say anything that will continue or stimulate speculation along that line."

This was in response to a question whether Connally had been offered another Cabinet post.

Hanoi turns down Viet pact changes

By United Press International
North Vietnam today rejected any basic changes in the draft cease-fire for Vietnam, but the United States said that peace was coming nevertheless.

All indications were that the private talks between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, a member of the ruling Politburo in Hanoi, would resume this weekend or early next week.

Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator in Paris, said Tho would fly to Paris Friday from Moscow, and White House sources said Kissinger would leave "soon," the exact time to be announced later.

The White House has continued to express optimism over the outcome of the Kissinger-Tho talks and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter reflected that optimism at today's session of the regularly scheduled talks in Paris.

"Each of us is aware that the restoration of peace in Vietnam is approaching," Porter said. "The goal of a peaceful settlement (is) much nearer than we imagined only a few weeks ago."

He took note of a series of tirades by the Viet Cong delegation in Paris and Hanoi Radio and called on the Communists not to endanger peace by invective, exaggerated rhetoric, recriminations and unfounded charges of bad faith.

Thuy told the 167th session of the peace talks, "we resolutely reject all pretexts put forward by the United States and Saigon for modification of the substance of the agreement."

"There is no argument which militates in favor of a modification of the agreement," he said. "We demand that the United States sign the draft as it has been agreed as early as possible."

Despite Thuy's statements, South Vietnamese negotiator Nguyen Xuan Phong renewed Saigon's demands for changes in the nine-point agreement broadcast by Hanoi Radio — demands that have so far blocked signing the agreement. They were:

— A cease-fire must include all of Indochina. The draft mentions only Vietnam.

— North Vietnam must withdraw all its troops from South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

— The Demilitarized Zone set up in 1954 after the French Indochina War must be reestablished as a buffer between North and South Vietnam.

— The Communists must drop their demand for any three-segment temporary authority in Saigon with Viet Cong participation.

Fall hurts Rickover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, 72, chief developer of the nuclear submarine, was admitted to Bethesda Naval hospital today after apparently falling in his office and cutting his head.

"His laceration is not serious," a Navy spokesman said. "He is in good condition."

"Admiral Rickover did have a minor accident in his office this morning. He was treated for a minor laceration at the Rader Clinic at Ft. Myer (near the Pentagon)," the spokesman said, before being transferred to Bethesda for observation.

Western allies extend arms talk invitations

BONN (UPI) — The Western allies have invited the Soviet Union and its allies to begin preparatory talks on East-West arms cuts in Europe Jan. 31, 1973, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said today.

Scheel said the invitations were sent out Wednesday and today in a joint note by the United States, Britain, Canada, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said they were handed to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary. In addition, Scheel said, West Germany sent a separate invitation to Communist East Germany.

Scheel said France was not among the countries that sent out the invitation because she ceased several years ago taking part in the military side of the North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) alliance.

In a statement read out to a news conference, Scheel said, "Thus for the first time an attempt will be made through negotiations to block and reduce, step by step, the military confrontation on our continent. It is in the interest of all to achieve greater security at less cost."

Scheel explained that the proposed talks on mutual and balanced arms and troop cuts in central Europe would take place parallel with and at the same time as negotiations on European security opens in Helsinki Nov. '72.

Scheel said other NATO member countries will be kept continuously informed and consulted about progress of arms cuts talks.

He said this will involve particularly NATO member countries on the northern and southern flanks in Europe, such as Norway, Denmark, Greece and Turkey.

"These countries," he said, "are particularly interested because of the fear that thinning out of troops and arms in the center could lead to stronger pressure on the flanks. This is something that must be avoided at all costs."

In London, U.S. Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., leader of the U.S. delegation to the North Atlantic Assembly, said he did not believe there would be any marked change in U.S. arms policy during President Nixon's second term.

Sparkman flew to London today leading a delegation of 13 senators to the Assembly.

Pilots threaten strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The leader of the commercial pilots union says another wildcat strike may be recommended next week in an attempt to force tighter security against airline hijackings.

Capt. J. J. O'Donnell, president of the 35,000-member Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA), said Wednesday that both the government and the airlines are "dragging their feet" in the hope "the problem would go away."

O'Donnell said the ALPA board of directors at a meeting next week would probably vote to recommend a worldwide work stoppage. He said any walkout would be early next year.

A pilots' strike June 19 was halted after one day by a federal court order. It did encourage Congress to work on legislation to permit U.S. airlines to boycott nations which harbor hijackers.

The legislation, however, died in the rush to adjourn the 92nd Congress before the Nov. 7 elections.

O'Donnell, an Eastern Airlines pilot on leave as ALPA president, also criticized the FBI for shooting the tires of a hijacked Southern Airways jet last weekend without consulting the pilot.

"The pilot was very close to the time when he could let the passengers off and in the middle of the talks," the FBI shot out the tires of the plane," O'Donnell said.

O'Donnell told a news conference that "only a miracle" prevented the 28-hour flight under gunpoint from ending "in a ball of flame."

Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III said that with airline officials' concurrence, he personally ordered the jet's tires shot out before it successfully left Orlando. The plane landed a short time later on a foam-covered runway in Havana, where the three hijackers were arrested and the plane, crew and passengers allowed to return to the United States. Gray said he could not tell the pilot of the action because the hijackers were there in the plane.

The State Department is studying the Cuban request, and some officials said they believed that Havana had moderated its position.

Fund bid slated by Camas, Blaine

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Two of Magic Valley's eight counties are seeking Federal Government classification to make them eligible for special economic development funds.

Reports on employment patterns in Camas and Blaine counties have been prepared by an official of the Idaho Department of Employment, and will be submitted to federal officials in the Department of Labor for review. If the two counties qualify for the special funds, under provisions of the Public Works and Economic Development Acts, they will join nine other counties in the state, making one quarter of Idaho's 44 counties eligible for the money that can go to economically depressed areas.

According to A. C. Beeman, chief of research and analysis at the department of employment in Boise, the manpower review studies were prepared by employment staff at the specific request of county officials.

Beeman said the federal program, established under the Johnson administration, provides for classifications of "substantial and persistent unemployment" and "substantial unemployment."

If an area meets the criteria for the classification which include 6 percent unemployment and no immediate prospects for improvement it may apply for programs such as public works, small business loans at low interest rates and other projects designed to assist economically depressed areas.

"The department of employment develops the data," Beeman said, "and it looks like they (Camas and Blaine counties) will get the classification of 'substantial unemployment.'"

The actual application for and procuring of funds is done through an agency under the Department of Commerce, the research chief said.

The report for Blaine County, prepared by Kenneth Hodge, labor analyst in the employment department's Twin Falls office, says in part, "During August, 1972, the unemployment rate in Blaine County was 7.8 percent of the labor force. This figure represents a decrease of 9.8 percentage points from the June rate, a slight decrease from six months ago and a slight increase from the rate recorded a year ago at this time."

Big Sur-hill slides again

BIG SUR, Calif. (UPI) — A mudslide poured down the cliffsides of this tiny coastal community Wednesday, sweeping away one building, blocking the only highway and marooning residents.

The slide came just a month to the day after a previous downpour of ooze and debris and Mrs. Charles Mohn, a resident, declared: "If you think the last slide was bad, you should see this one."

No injuries have been reported in the Big Sur area despite the oozy disaster.

Swept away as the mud slid toward the Pacific Ocean was the Big Sur Garage. Other structures were badly damaged. The Post office was filled with mud and water and mud reached to the second floor of the Village Store. Don Smythe, an employee of the garage, said a tow truck was "upside down" in the kitchen of my trailer. He had lived in the nearby trailer and said the truck, which broke in two, had gone through the trailer roof.

The California Highway Patrol reported Highway 1, which hangs on cliffs overlooking the ocean, was blocked by mud at several spots and that 35 persons staying at the River Inn were marooned.

Also marooned were three employees of the Cooper School which serves the area.

Water from the Big Sur River poured three-feet deep across the highway, the Highway Patrol said.

Arsenic found in children

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — High levels of arsenic have been found in children living within a half mile of the smelter operated here by the American Smelting and Refining Co.

Dr. Wallace Lane, Assistant Secretary of the State Department of Social and Health Services, said in a report that the arsenic level in the children was 15 times higher than the level we feel safe.

The study, begun last spring, showed the children had arsenic levels in their urine, similar to those found in adults employed in the arsenic manufacturing process inside the plant.

Dr. Lane qualified the warning about the danger only by saying it is not imminent. "While not in imminent danger of acute arsenic poisoning," Lane said, "the health of Tacoma and Ruston residents is affected by exposure to arsenic at the levels we are finding."

Ruston is a municipal conclave within the city of Tacoma. The smelter is situated there. Lane said a study done by smelter personnel indicated up to half the employees with arsenic levels could be expected to have arsenic caused dermatitis. This is a disease that can cause reddening, swelling, bruising and crusting of the skin. Lane said the Department believed there is an urgent need to adopt and enforce arsenic control standards.

Too early for mandate tag

BOISE (UPI) — Retiring Republican Sen. Len B. Jordan says it's too early to tell if President Nixon's landslide vote Nov. 7 is a mandate from the people.

"It's too early to call it a mandate. No one knows for sure if the landslide was a pro-Nixon or anti-McGovern vote," Jordan told the Idaho Press Club Wednesday. Jordan, who has served in the Senate since 1963, said overall it was not a landslide victory for the Republicans. He said the party did pick up some seats in the House of Representatives, but in the Senate the GOP took a net loss of two. "It was a standoff slightly shaded toward the Democrats," Jordan said the outcome of the election may have been different if Gov. George Wallace had not been wounded during the early stages of his campaign.

"I think only time will tell if the election was a mandate," Jordan, who has served as Idaho Governor and a former legislator, said.

Jordan called for reform in the whole election procedure to limit time of campaigns and the amount of money spent. He also said that all election polls across the nation should close at the same time.

Forecasting the coming Nixon years, the Republican said one of the big problems facing the President is the continuation of programs he has started. He said these programs include a generation of peace, full employment, and the quality of life in America.

"He (Nixon) is still up against a Democratic-controlled Congress — on both sides," Jordan said.

He said Congress still has unfinished business on tax reform, welfare, reform and land use planning legislation. He said a big issue facing Congress and the presidency is the energy crisis.

Jordan called for more study of the problem of energy to avoid the need to import great quantities of oil and gas into the United States during the next decade.

He said if the United States does not keep up its production of gas and oil it could have a $20 to $25-billion deficit a year to import the products.

The first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945.

Charge names ex-treasurer

MURPHY (UPI) — Sadie Eisenhart, former Owyhee County treasurer has been accused of "systematically and continuously" embezzling $104,413.12 from public funds. A routine audit last January pointed to the deficit and commissioners ordered an intensive audit. Mrs. Eisenhart resigned June 29.

Mrs. Eisenhart, who served as treasurer of the county for more than 20 years, has been given until next Monday to obtain an attorney.

Decision scored

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Press Club passed a resolution Wednesday, "condemning" Third District Judge Edward J. Lodge for his court order restricting press releases by the Department of Environmental Protection and Health concerning a crackdown on a Caldwell nursing home.

The resolution "condemned" the judge for his "blatant disregard for the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution" concerning freedom of speech and the press. The resolution also called for the judge "to retrench from the position he has taken."

Bond majority vote in effect

BOISE (UPI) — A constitutional amendment lowering to a simple majority from two-thirds the vote required to pass sewer and water revenue bonds became effective Nov. 7, it was reported Wednesday.

In an opinion for Sandpoint Mayor Lester Brown, Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park said ratification took place the day the people of Idaho approved the amendment.

Therefore, he said, the sewer-water revenue bond election for Sandpoint next Tuesday will require only a simple majority for the bond issue to pass.

While Park's opinion was written for the forthcoming election at Sandpoint it also validated results of a bond election this past Tuesday at Firth. Voters okayed a $130,000 sewer revenue bond issue there 49-44.

Nixon gains 74 per cent

TWIN FALLS — Final Twin Falls County election totals show President Nixon and Rep. Orval Hansen both took 74 per cent of the vote in their races.

But Sheriff Paul Corder was the county's most popular office seeker, leading all other candidates with 14,494 votes on election day.

Official returns show Nixon took 74 per cent of the presidential vote cast in the county, with Sen. George McGovern having 19 per cent. American Party candidate Rep. John Schmitz had 6 per cent.

In the senatorial race, Republican Rep. James A. McClure won 61 per cent of the county vote, compared to Democrat Dr. William E. Davis' 35 per cent. American Party hopeful Mrs. Jean Stoddard had three per cent.

Rep. Orval Hansen was helped to his third term in Congress with the support of 74 per cent of the county voters making the trip to the polls.

That compares to 21 per cent of the vote for his Democratic challenger Willis Ludlow, and American Party John Thibert's four per cent.

All three winners, the President, Senator-elect McClure and Rep. Hansen carried each of the county's 48 precincts.

In the county level races, Republican Sheriff Paul Corder, who swamped his primary opposition in August, received 14,494 votes to lead all candidates. He was without opposition. Coroner Cloyce Edwards and Assessor Ron Taylor, both Republicans, took 13,978 and 13,294 votes respectively.

Unopposed Republican County Commissioner Merl Leonard had 12,763 votes, while in the contested seat for the commission, Republican William Chancey tallied 9,627 votes compared to Democrat Robert Geer's 6,544.

Republican prosecuting attorney candidate Robert Galley won over Democrat Golden Bennett by a 10,097 to 4,833 score, according to the official returns.

In the legislative races, district 24 incumbent Sen. John M. Barker, R-Buhl, defeated Raymond Strickland, 5,232 to 2,317. Incumbent Reps. William Roberts, R-Buhl, and William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, tallied 5,533 and 5,379 votes respectively, compared to Democratic challenger A. K. Reed's 2,480.

In district 25, incumbent Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, defeated Democrat Melvyn Lucas, 6,653 to 1,810 votes.

Reps. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, and Ralph Olmstead, a Twin Falls Republican, defeated Democrats Lynn Hempleman and Mrs. G. W. (Jerry) Creed. Lincoln had 6,602 votes, Olmstead had 6,681, Hempleman had 1,943 and Mrs. Creed tallied 1,777.

Kellwood receives 2nd Sears award

TWIN FALLS — Bill Satterfield, Kellwood plant manager, said today the Twin Fall plant has received the Sears Symbol of Excellence Award for the second year in a row.

The award was presented today to the Twin Falls operation by Royce Williams, group employee relations director, on behalf of Bob McKinley, group president.

This award is presented only to Sears' suppliers for outstanding performance in three areas — top quality product in market place, research and development, and meeting delivery schedules.

Satterfield said this award is the result of outstanding effort of the employees and supervisors at the Twin Falls plant.

Headquartered in St. Louis, Kellwood manufactures and merchandises apparel, home fashions and recreation equipment and employs almost 18,000 people at 53 plants in 14 states.

Widespread

Inflation is emerging as one of the world's — at any rate the Western World's — major problems. It is showing itself in virtually every industrial nation in Europe and Asia, with increasingly unsettling consequences.

The British pound's latest troubles, as well as a number of other problems besetting Prime Minister Heath's government, are directly attributable to an inflation rate of 10 percent. This is the highest rate in western Europe, but other countries are not far behind.

By most European standards, the 3.2 percent rate of inflation measured in the United States for the first half of 1972 by the U.S. Department of Commerce, is practically no inflation at all. The inflation rate is higher in Canada, France, Japan, Italy, West Germany and of course Great Britain.

This may seem like a reasonably favorable picture for the United States, but not necessarily. As interest rates increase in other countries as part of government attempts to attract greater savings and smaller spending, funds also are attracted from the U. S.

An exodus of dollars hurts the balance of payments, already badly out of kilter. There may be some short-term advantages for goods manufactured in the U. S.

which will be more competitively priced in foreign markets. The tendency of governments everywhere, however, is to erect barriers to imports when they threaten domestic employment.

When inflation runs rampant through many economies, the effect can be upsetting in a number of ways. To point to one, the high rate of inflation has become a rallying point for the opposition to Willy Brandt's government in the West German elections of Nov. 19.

Consumer unrest is a universal sign of inflation's debilitating effect on the availability and affordability of goods and services. The rumblings can be heard in a number of lands where high prices are causing luxuries and some staples to disappear from the average family's shopping list.

Quarrels between nations are a consequence. As western Europe moves to put its fiscal affairs in order, one of the items likely to be targeted for reduced government spending is contributions to mutual assistance and defense agreement. Such a move would come at a time when the U. S. is urging its western allies to assume a greater, not lesser, share of their defense obligations.

Failures in inflation control attempts elsewhere will reverberate here as well.

Not A Member Of Their Club

WASHINGTON — There is an unconscious tribute to Margaret Chase Smith in the failure of the nation's professional feminist to mourn the Maine Senator's defeat in our quadrennial blood-letting. By their indifference, the girls are saying that Mrs. Smith was not a member of their club, and I trust she is properly grateful.

Historians may note the irony inherent in Mrs. Smith's defeat by Congressman William Hathaway. For the Maine gentlewoman after all was a pioneer in the woman's liberation movement; she was first elected to the Senate 32 years ago when most females were still slaving over a hot stove and wearing dresses. Yet her defeat produced no weeping or teeth-gnashing among today's crop of bra-burners.

The explanation is simple. The 74-year-old Mrs. Smith was always "the gentlewoman from Maine," in style and demeanor. She was a feminist without the noise and the vulgarity, cast in the mold of such as Eleanor Roosevelt. Her words on the Senate floor were spoken, not shrieked or bawled. Her male colleagues were quiet when she rose to speak, not only out of old-fashioned courtesy — although it was always a pleasure to pay her courtesy — but because they knew she would have something to say, in a quiet, conversational tone.

It was no accident that John Kennedy and Richard Nixon, with whom Margaret Smith frequently disagreed, used the same term to acknowledge her quality. Thwarted by her votes, both remarked on her "class." Mrs. Smith was also — if she will forgive the expression — a tough baby. It was she who first took after her fellow Republican, Joe McCarthy, when even most Democrats avoided confrontation with the Wisconsin demagogue. On the Senate floor, she sternly but quietly warned her party not to ride to victory "on the four horsemen of calumny — fear, ignorance, bigotry and smear."

Shamefaced that a mere woman should remind them of their ethical responsibilities, her colleagues eventually summoned up enough collective courage to censure McCarthy. I still don't believe they'd have faced up to their duty if Mrs. Smith had not taken them firmly by the hand. I suppose Mrs. Smith was, and is, a conservative in the sense that she was capable of seeing good in old values and rejecting change for change's mere sake. But she was always what the feminists of today demand that all women be — very much her own woman. Dwight D. Eisenhower found that out when she questioned some of the more grandiose on-the-bank philosophies of his Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles. More recently, President Nixon discovered that Mrs. Smith hadn't changed a bit.

Nixon's nose-counters had Mrs. Smith in the bag on the President's Supreme Court appointments of G. Harrold Carswell and Clement F. Haynsworth. They had, however, neglected to check with the Main gentlewoman. She voted no on both nominations.

She voted no on the ABM missile and on money for the supersonic transport airliner. Several weeks ago, his ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, she had what the White House privately described as the "audacity" to oppose Nixon's nomination of Gen. Creighton Abrams as Army Chief of Staff. Abrams, said Mrs. Smith in a most un-Republican voice, should be held responsible for the unauthorized bombing of North Vietnam last winter.

Time for Another Landslide!

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Ultrasonic rays have proved quite effective in painlessly dissolving calcium deposits in joints and treating bursitis. Have any experiments been conducted in the use of ultrasonic rays to reduce or dissolve cataracts? If so, what have been the results? — D. M. D.

Experimentation in this field has been done and is continuing, but to my knowledge the results are not too encouraging. The intense heat generated at the focal point of the sound waves can be quite destructive to certain types of tissue.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If one is counting calories, would there be any advantage to taking some kind of instant protein? A friend says it gives her an abundance of energy and everybody counting calories should take it. Are there any calories in it? — O.F.

If it's protein, you can be sure it represents calories in the day's total. If your friends takes it instead of some other form of protein, that's one thing. If she takes it in addition to her reducing diet, that means she's adding some weight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As cosmetic surgery is not covered by our insurance, can a bunionectomy be performed by either a physician or podiatrist in his office? — Mrs. R. B.

Bunionectomy is not regarded as cosmetic surgery in the usual sense of the word — it is not performed purely for the sake of appearance. I've heard of cases of correcting bunions in the office, but because of anesthetic and other technical problems it usually is a hospital procedure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that pulling the hairs out of the nose could cause cancer. I unintentionally pulled several hairs several months ago and am quite worried that I may have started a cancerous growth. Is this possible? — J.F.W.

I've never heard of cancer starting from that. However, clipping the hairs with scissors, instead of pulling them out, is the better method because pulling them can let infection.

start around the hair root. If you haven't seen any sign of that by this time, then just forget the whole matter and from now on clip instead of pull.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about the use of lithium salts to treat mental disorders, which had been tested in England. Could this treatment be used for an aged person who is quite senile and troubled with forgetfulness and delusions? And would this form of treatment be available in the U.S.? — E. E. R.

Lithium is in use in the U.S. for manic depressive patients (one form of emotional disorder) but I have doubts that it would be of help in a case such as you cite.

Note to Mr. and Mrs. J. S.: Chances of pregnancy are quite markedly improved if you avoid intercourse for several days before ovulation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A lot of people think that eating sweets produces worms in small children. What are some ways small children may contact eggs of these parasites? — L.J.

Sugar, of course, does NOT cause worms. The commonest worm is the pinworm, and the eggs are invisibly small. Children get the eggs on their fingers or under their fingernails, swallow them without realizing it, and the eggs hatch into pinworms. There are, of course, other types of intestinal worms, but not nearly as common, and ordinarily conveyed by undercooked meat.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment, write for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

MR. SPECTATOR

Perhaps The Reason?

With all the noise anent the protest of the sailors refusing to serve aboard the aircraft carrier because they were (they said) part of a plot which prohibited their advancing in rank or into positions of leadership — there just might be a good reason.

Could be that the protesting sailors — both the blacks and the whites — are not advancing because they are not mentally capable of taking on the new and higher assignments.

In business, advancement is not just automatic. In most cases — unless the employee has a real "in" — the advancement comes if the person involved can handle the new assignments. So why expect Navy advancement just because of length of service? There should be no "pull" in the service — or in business, for that matter.

Now, getting back to the Navy problem, we will say again it just might be because they are not capable.

NO COMBAT PAY

Under a new contract signed between the New York City Board of Education and the 70,000-member United Federation of Teachers, a salary schedule for classroom teachers in the city's public schools will range from $9,500 to the top of $18,100 this year.

By September, 1974, minimum and maximum salaries will go up to $9,700 and $20,350 respectively. The length of service required to qualify for the maximum is seven and a half years.

Not bad, you might say, for a job that includes some 10 weeks of vacation each summer, plus Christmas and Easter interludes. And it wouldn't be bad, except the contract makes no provision for combat pay.

In the first three weeks of October, 16 incidents of robbery of teachers and some parents in New York City schools were reported.

ROBERT ALLEN

Looking For Wheat

WASHINGTON — Now Chile is in the market for a large quantity of U. S. wheat.

The ideologically-troubled regime of Marxist President Allende is putting out feelers to buy possibly as much as 1,250,000 tons of grain — worth at present prices around $125 million delivered.

The U. S. has the wheat to sell, but no particular urge to do so.

Banks that normally finance such transactions are markedly cool to providing credit for business with turbulent Chile.

Not only is the west coast South American country furiously rent by stormy ideological dissension and economic chaos and soaring inflation, but huge U.S. mining and other properties have been summarily expropriated without compensation.

In addition, the two years Marxist President Allende has been in office have been unendingly troubled by gross fumbling and bumbling, and disruptive personal, political and economic crises. As one prominent Chilean commentator observed, "If Allende hasn't made any mistakes, it's because he hasn't thought of them."

The leftist and his Communist henchmen have particularly gone out of their way to strain relations with the U.S. Only the determined forbearance of the Nixon administration has averted an open break.

Now that Chile literally faces a serious bread shortage, Allende is turning to this country for help.

Whether it will be forthcoming and on what terms remains to be seen.

The Allende regime is seeking U. S. grain virtually because it has to.

The U. S. is the only country still possessing a large wheat surplus available for foreign sale.

Russia and China, normally major grain producers, are heavy purchasers this year due to large-scale crop shortages. Both already have bought a lot of U. S. wheat and have indicated intention to buy more. Argentina, neighbor of Chile, had a bumper grain crop but has sold its surplus to the Soviet and China.

Canada is also pretty much out of the market because of massive exports, and so is Australia. It has stopped selling because of the prospect of a short crop next year due to an intensifying drought.

Confronted with this difficult world situation, President Allende is more or less forced to swallow his Marxist gill and come to the U.S. for the wheat his country urgently needs.

RAY CROMLEY

Closed Shop

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is growing alarm within the Nixon administration over the economic programs of our West European allies.

What bothers the Nixon men deeply is a program now being worked out in the European Common Market which aims eventually at a bloc of 60 countries, each giving the others trade preferences and discriminating against the products of the United States and other non-member lands.

The first step aims at bringing in a group of Mediterranean lands. Quiet behind-the-scenes talks are going ahead on this first-step program now despite some concerned effort on the part of special U. S. trade representatives to stem the tide.

This system of protection and discrimination would, of course, put the United States at a severe trade disadvantage. Worse yet, the Nixon economic-trade specialists here fear, it would set off a race worldwide to set up competing protectionist trade blocs. This development would knock the props out of the free trade policies which American presidents, Republican and Democrat alike, have pushed for the past two decades.

However inconsistent our other policies from time to time, both political parties have united on the necessity for cutting trade barriers as a stimulus to prosperity.

The growth of these protectionist blocs might make it very difficult indeed for the United States to recover from its unfavorable balance of trade unless Washington, too, resorted to stiff import controls and set up an international preference bloc of its own.

The Europeans tell Mr. Nixon's protesting representatives that the rising tide of U. S. technology is forcing them into this protectionism.

The U. S. technology base is too strong, and growing too rapidly, they claim, for Europeans to compete. First there's the vast U. S. market itself, which sparks new technology and offers the opportunity for profitable exploitation of new developments. Then there's the worldwide spread of U. S. companies which enables this country to learn quickly and to rapidly take advantage of technological improvements wherever they're developed.

The financial strength of these international U. S. concerns provides them with the necessary capital to put these advanced technological discoveries into use with amazing speed, the European Common Market men say. As a result, they claim, Europe must in self defense expand its own base. Thus the plan for a 60-country alliance.

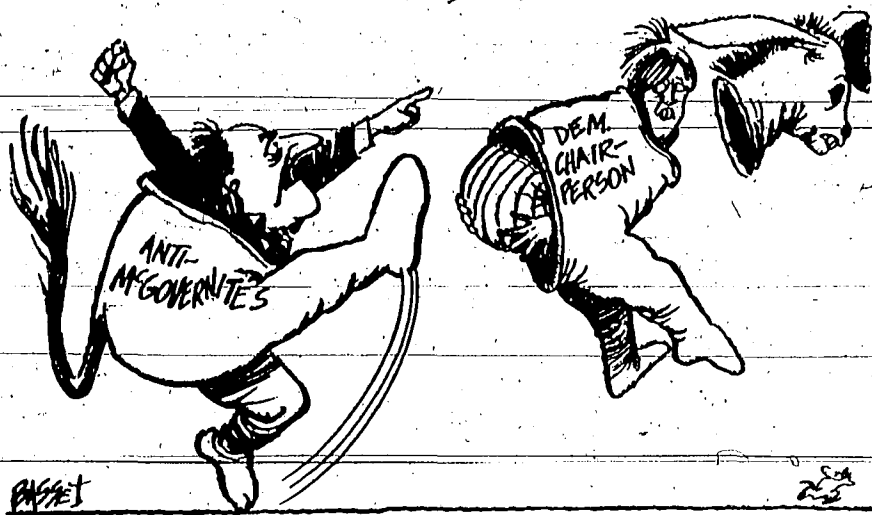

But the Europeans are increasingly worried about American counter moves. They've urged Washington to end the war in Vietnam and to build relations with the Communist lands and thus ease the cold war.

Eagleton claims 'asset' role

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton believes Sen. George McGovern probably would have lost the presidential race anyway, but he wouldn't have been as big a loser if he had kept Eagleton as his running mate.

"I firmly believe if I had stayed on the ticket, I would have been more of an asset than a liability," Eagleton told a meeting of newspaper editors

Reporter immunity endorsed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said today that reporters should have an absolute immunity from grand jury questions, even if they know a crime is about to be committed.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Midwest fall regional conference of the National Association of Broadcasters, Hartke said it was vital to democracy that reporters not be jailed for protecting their sources.

Just as the Constitution forbids the arrest of a legislator in the performance of his legislative function, Hartke said a reporter should be protected, and for the same reason—to protect democracy.

A reporter "cannot be jailed because the police functioning is not working right," he said. "If our best detectives and our best police information sources cannot do the job of crime detection and prevention, then thank God if there is a reporter who can do it without telling us how, in police terms."

"And the last thing we ought to do is penalize him for doing his job well. As a former district attorney, I fear that many of the calls for a reporter's scalp—even by a grand jury—stem from enforcement departments suffering an inferiority complex."

Wednesday.

The Missouri Democrat said McGovern probably would have lost anyway, because "his views such as amnesty, pot, abortion and $1,000 welfare plan—some or all of these views—disturbed a great number of people."

Eagleton, 43, was dropped from the ticket when it was revealed that he had undergone psychiatric treatment in the early 1960s.

Eagleton said Wednesday he had been without any mental problems for six years and the issue didn't enter his mind on that day in Miami Beach when he was asked over the telephone to be the Democratic vice presidential candidate. At the time of the call he did not tell of his past treatment.

"I don't get up every morning and when I'm shaving, say: 'Good morning, Eagleton, how's your mental health?'"

He drew applause and laughter from the editors with the comment, "If that phone should ring in 1976, I'll say, 'Hey, have you heard about my health?'"

The Missouri senator said the entire Eagleton affair was "a plus" in terms of favorable public opinion for persons with mental health problems.

Eagleton said he agreed with a statement by Alabama Gov. George Wallace Tuesday that the Democratic party needs restructuring.

"The results of the election showed our base to be too narrowly gauged, just like the Republicans in 1964," he said. "We'll have to have a more broadly based appeal in 1976."

and professional examination and their members are subject to penalties for improper conduct.

"And now this previous right is being claimed, with increasing frequency, by as unlikely a group to deserve it as any ordinary nightmare could conjure up," Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said Wednesday.

Meskill, a Republican, told the Yale Political Union that a shield law allowing newsmen to protect their sources would "instantly combine the functions of doctor, lawyer, clergyman, judge and jury in any man who held a press card or who had a dollar and a half to go out and get one printed."

Communications between an individual and his attorney, doctor or clergyman "are one-to-one situations and the intent is that they shall forever remain private between the two participants," Meskill said.

The professions now entitled to privileged communication, he said, require intensive study

Aides think Butz stays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials believe their leader, Secretary Earl L. Butz, is certain to remain on the job for the second term of President Nixon.

But whether Nixon's happiness with his "farm team" extends to all of the administrators working for Butz is a matter of some debate.

Sources in the department said Butz, his seven top aides, some 45 highly paid executives, and perhaps 150 others in jobs not under Civil Service control—such as Butz's chauffeur—have submitted their resignations. The act is a traditional gesture that allows the President to pick his own team for a second term.

Nixon will be sending word to Butz by perhaps mid-December on most of the officials—to keep them or let them go.

Butz was said to be "in solid." He was a Nixon appointee who brought several new approaches to the farm program, and Nixon stood by him despite criticism that Butz was too close to corporate farming interests.

Butz campaigned enthusiastically for Nixon this year and helped bring the farm vote to Nixon.

A campaign bumper sticker of the time said, "Farmers: re-elect Nixon or lose your Butz." For some of the men under him, the going might be rougher.

"Some have had some flak—but who wouldn't?" one agriculture official said.

Agriculture Undersecretary, J. Phil Campbell has drawn criticism from some quarters and was reported at one time to be considering getting back into Georgia politics. He is a former Georgia commissioner of agriculture.

Those factors created speculation that Nixon would accept Campbell's resignation. But Campbell said Wednesday he knew nothing either way.

"If they want me I will stay," he said. "If not, I have no qualms about it. I have no qualms either way."

Acquainted

"WIZARD OF OZ" background in the Twin Falls Public Library includes a scarecrow and Tin Woodman. Here Kathy Tjarks, 9, gets acquainted with the characters while picking up her free ticket to the Saturday shows of the Jolly Jesters Marionettes.

Library show tickets ready

TWIN FALLS — Children planning to attend one of the three Jolly Jester marionette shows Saturday at the Twin Falls Public Library should pick up their free admission tickets immediately. The tickets are available at the children's library desk. Library officials are asking the children to pick up tickets so attendance at the three performances can be regulated. Last year the first drew more children than could be crowded into the children's library room while others had fairly light attendance.

Well-known throughout Magic Valley for their shows, the Jolly Jesters group under the direction of Mrs. R. J. Reichard, Jerome, will present "The Wizard of Oz" in performances Saturday at 10:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. The program culminates the observance of National Children's Library Week which ends Sunday. Annie Laurie Burton, library staff member, said children without the free admission tickets may have to wait for a later performance because of the limited seating capacity for each performance.

Decision sought

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The Montana Supreme Court has been asked to decide the legal status of Indians involved in cases where there are no applicable federal or tribal laws. The court ordered a hearing Dec. 6 to include officials of the U.S. Solicitor General's Office, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the U.S. District Attorney for Montana, the Montana Attorney General, a Montana district court judge and a county Attorney.

The case is one brought by Mary Iron Bear, an enrolled member of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, whose divorce action in Roosevelt County District Court was halted when Judge James Sorte asserted his court lacked jurisdiction.

Dismissal sought

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Bar has asked U. S. District Court to dismiss a suit brought by three attorney candidates who failed the August, 1972 bar examinations. In an action filed by Bar President John M. Sharp, Idaho Falls, and Commissioners John H. Bengston, Lewiston, and Thomas G. Nelson, Twin Falls, the bar pointed out the plaintiffs have appeals pending before the State Supreme Court.

Their dismissal motion also contended the suit raises questions within the "exclusive jurisdiction" of the Idaho Supreme Court that are beyond jurisdiction of the federal court.

Dam aid vowed

AMERICAN FALLS (UPI) — During an unannounced, on-site tour of the "threatened" American Falls Dam, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus disclosed Wednesday he would instigate an all-out effort to replace the dam as soon as possible. Taking personal note of "literally thousands of cracks and crumbling portions of the aging structure," the governor called the condition of the dam "three-pronged threat."

He said there is a safety factor because of a possible major disaster if the structure fails and he expressed concern over the diminishing holding capacity in the American Falls Reservoir.

He also said the inconvenience of alternating one-way traffic over the dam, being planned to ward off the possibility of collapse of the roadway.

"My hope is to bring all four members of the Idaho Congressional delegation to American Falls to view this situation first-hand," Andrus said. "I am convinced that we cannot wait the anticipated six years being projected for replacement."

Beauty operator speaks at Burley

BURLEY — Mrs. Nancy Stapleman, owner and operator of the House of Beauty, Heyburn, addressed the Burley Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday evenings at Price's Cafe. She described a class in "self appreciation" which she is conducting. The class includes makeup application, hair care, modeling, sitting, standing, walking, and related subjects of poise and personal development.

It is a seven-week course which meets once a week for a two-hour lesson.

Mrs. Stapleman also explained the new concept of using vitamins in processing permanent waves and hair tints.

She said taking vitamins is now being found to have a great deal to do with beauty and prevention of aging of skin and body tissues.

The address was arranged by Mrs. Viola Baker, personal development chairman of the club.

Mrs. Doris Grimsman conducted the business meeting. A report of the South Central District meeting at Jerome was given by Mrs. Vera Williams. She said the spring district meeting will be held at Rupert March 24.

TV thefts under probe

KETCHUM — Investigation is continuing today into the theft of several color television sets from International Village, Warm Springs. According to the Ketchum Police Department, the theft occurred during the past week but was discovered Wednesday. Value of the sets is estimated at several thousand dollars.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

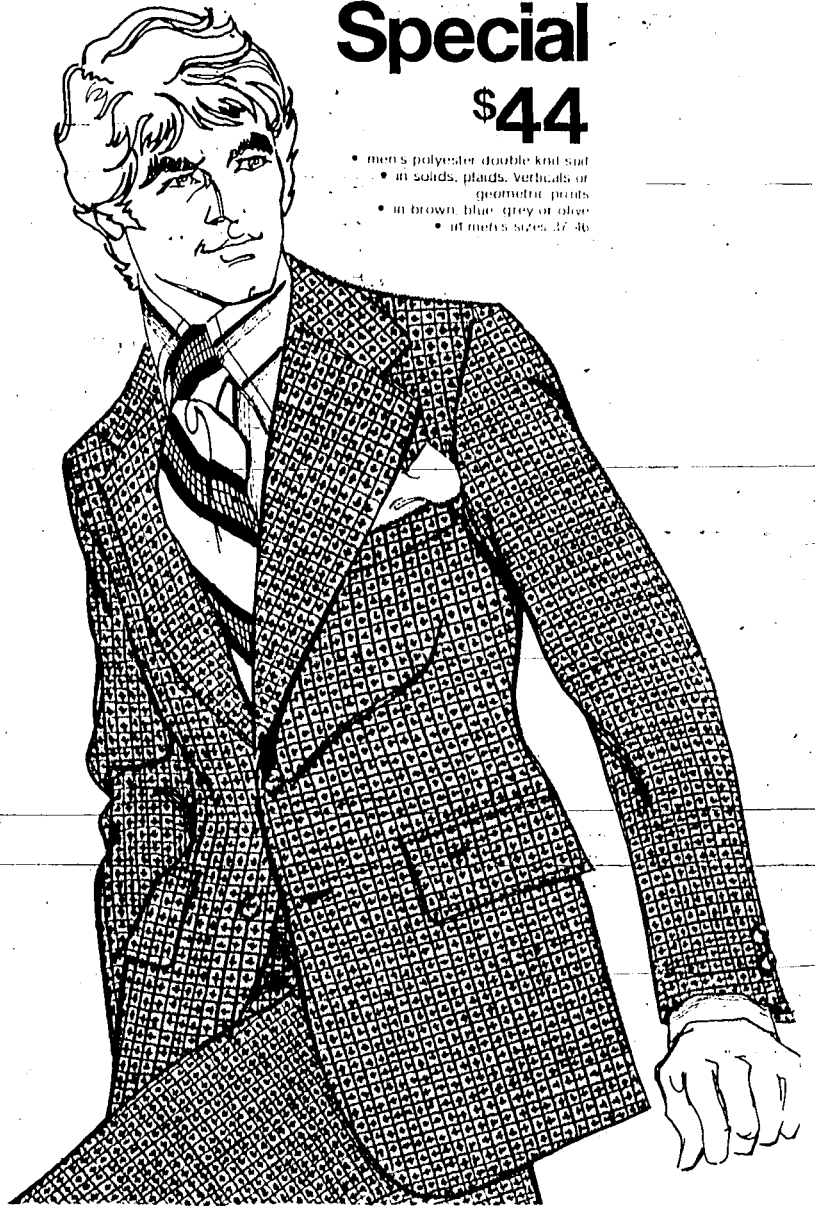

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

France sets new H tests

PARIS (UPI) — France has decided to carry out new nuclear tests in the Pacific in 1973, including an hydrogen bomb device, government sources said today.

The tests are intended to refine the H-bomb warheads for the Polaris-type missiles arming French nuclear submarines. They also will be fitted into the medium range missiles housed in underground silos on Alibon Plateau, South Eastern France, the sources said.

At least one of the planned blasts will be an H-bomb device of one megaton strength (one million tons of TNT), the sources said. The first hydrogen bomb test in France's Pacific testing area was carried out in July 1970.

Defense ministry officials said as usual no formal announcement of the explosions will be made in advance of the test. France halted official comment on her nuclear tests following a wave of protests from Pacific area nations over the fall-out from the blasts.

Waves crash homes

HUGE WAVES, some over 10-feet high, crash against houses lining the Lake Erie shoreline in Luna Pier, in southeastern Michigan Tuesday. High waves and flooding forced hundreds of persons to be evacuated from their homes. Michigan's Gov. William Milliken has called national guardmen in to help in rescue efforts and to prevent looting. BLM aide talks to Lions

TWIN FALLS — Odell Frandsen, Shoshone, district manager of the Bureau of Land Management, addressed Twin Falls Lions Wednesday noon in the Hogerson Hotel.

Frandsen told the Lions there is more than 12 million acres of federal land in Idaho, and more than half of the total land in southern Idaho is governed by the BLM.

He said a staff in the Shoshone district office includes 25 employees of which 17 are fulltime, seven or eight are part-time workers with another 50 college people added during summer to help combat fires on range land.

Gayland Erickson, president of the Lions Club, introduced the speaker.

It was announced Jean Millar, city manager, Twin Falls, will speak next week. There will be a meeting of the board of directors Friday at noon in the Colonial House.

Beautiful, also profitable

NEW YORK (UPI)—Black can be profitable as well as beautiful.

Publisher Earl G. Graves pounds home that theme in "Black Enterprise," a monthly how-to-do-it magazine for black businessmen and black consumers.

"Did you know," he asked, "that U.S. blacks combined have a gross national product of $42 billion? If we were a nation that would give us the ninth largest GNP in the free world."

Many areas of the U.S. economy would suffer, maybe wither, if blacks stopped buying, according to Graves, a husky, modish dresser of 37 who has the self-assurance of a Green Beret officer which he was and still is. He cited heavy black buying of Chevrolet, Open-Cola, Scotch whiskey. "And there are a lot more," he said, studying a menu in an exclusive luncheon club near his new mid-Manhattan offices.

Graves noted that blacks spent $800 million on travel in 1971 and are expected to spend $800 million this year. They also spent $285 million on conventions last year.

There are 163,000 black-owned firms with gross receipts of $4.5 billion. They are most attracted to selected service ventures such as boutiques. Then they go into retail trade, transportation, contract construction, finance and real estate. Black transportation firms make up five per cent of all such U.S. firms, the highest proportion in any one business area. The highest returns, however, come from automotive shops, gasoline stations, food stores, eating and drinking places and special trade contractors.

One of the few things that can cause Graves to lose his "cool" is to suggest that most blacks either are on or going on welfare. He notes his magazine's controlled free circulation of 125,000 blacks with a pass-on readership of 400,000. It accounts for almost half of all black dollars spent.

It also has a median household income of $18,550. Twenty-eight per cent of it earns more than $25,000 per year; 73 per cent carried at least one credit card; 55 per cent owned their own homes; 68 per cent took four or more trips per year; 91 per cent owned at least one car; and 56 per cent owned at least two cars.

Because he was advising black businessmen how to "make it" in the white establishment it became almost a necessity that Black Enterprise do well. And it has. It's regarded as the third fastest growing magazine. In a field where few make it and then only after years of "paying dues," the publication turned a profit the first year, starting August, 1970, on a gross of $30,000. It has pulled in about $1.5 million the second year.

"We don't solicit or accept charity ads," said Graves. "We sell strictly on the basis that an ad will bring profits. Since a lot of big companies like General Motors advertise with us they must be getting the message."

Graves believes that blacks must work within the system to get a proportionate share of it. "I've done it and succeeded; so can other blacks," he said. "I don't mean lying down and being walked over. I mean being smart by working within the system and understanding it."

Graves, born in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant ghetto, now lives in exclusive Westchester County. After being graduated from a Brooklyn high school, he worked his way through Morgan State College, Baltimore. Then it was the military and a letter from the Idaho Highway Department recommending that speed limit signs within the city be removed until traffic surveys are made.

After Kennedy's assassination, Graves formed a management consultant firm and eventually turned to publishing. Albion states hook-up policy

ALBION — Albion City councilmen established an electrical hook-up policy during a regular meeting Tuesday night.

Mayor O'Deen Redman said city participation in the hook-ups will be restricted to installation of the electrical pole, weatherhead, conduit, meter and meter base. State electrical inspectors had informed the city that any further work would have to be completed by a licensed electrician, according to Redman.

The city had posted 15 mile an hour signs at a 90-degree turn on Highway 77 within the city.

In other action: — The city agreed to aid in the payment of electrical services for the City Library opening in the old D. L. Evans and Co. Building.

— The city agreed to sell a street light to James Chatburn for $25.

Miracle comes true for girl

MAIDSTONE, England (UPI) —Carole Sinclair will not have to run away from home again. The 11-year-old girl ran away a week ago and left a note saying she was leaving so her mother could use the money spent on her for food to finance a trip to Lourdes for her 2-year-old stepbrother Peter. Peter suffers from spinal atrophy and doctors say he will die within a few years, but Carole said she wanted more than anything to see him go to Lourdes, the French religious shrine many Roman Catholics consider the site of miracle cures. Now, thanks to generous strangers, Peter will go after Christmas and Carole will go with him. Her mother, Mrs. Janet Sinclair, said donations have flooded into her home from throughout Britain and even some places in the United States. "We have had so much post that the GPO (post office) has had to make special deliveries," she said. "The telephone hasn't stopped ringing with offers of help. We have even had calls from America." The Sinclair's plight came to public notice when Carole ran away from home and a policeman found her, took her home and told newsmen the story. "Every day since our story was told has seemed like Christmas Day," Mrs. Sinclair said. "We have had hundreds of letters from people who have been to Lourdes, offering us encouragement." Lourdes is where Catholics believe Bernadette Soubirous repeatedly saw visions of the Virgin Mary and it remains a place reputed as a source of miraculous cures for invalid faithful.

Hours of the sale will be from 5 to 9 p.m. Friday, noon to 9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. The ski club will continue to accept items up to the time of the sales or during the sale hours. Persons bringing items in may set the price they wish to receive. The club keeps 15 percent of the total price. Co-chairmen of the ski swap are Jim Sund and Greg Clark. The CSI Ski Club is also sponsoring a ski movie Dec. 10. The movie, "Earth Rider," will be shown in the fine arts auditorium at 8 p.m. and is open to the public. The film features all types of skiing from "hot dogs" to deep powder specialists. The production is by Sunstorm International, directed and photographed by Mike Marvin.

Latin American nations get assurance on Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major Latin American nations have fought for and received assurances that President Nixon is not contemplating any move toward restoring diplomatic and economic relations with Cuba during his second term.

These hemispheric allies fear that Nixon, in pursuing his "era of negotiations," might secretly undertake a "peace offensive" in the Caribbean without advising them in advance.

Their fear stemmed from recollections of how Japan was left out on a diplomatic limb when the United States, while still urging Tokyo to beware of Peking and strengthen ties with Taiwan, suddenly announced Nixon's plan to visit Communist China and seek "normalization" of relations.

These nations now have been advised officially through diplomatic channels of the position Nixon took in an interview 10 days ago with the Washington Star-News. In that interview, he said "there will be no change, no change whatever, in our policy toward Cuba, unless and until — and I do not anticipate this will happen — Castro changes his policy toward Latin America and the United States."

Actually, an overwhelming majority of the 24 member nations of the Organization of American States (OAS) still support the diplomatic and economic quarantine which the organization adopted at the behest of the United States in the wake of the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

Only three of the 24 — Mexico, Chile and Peru — have diplomatic relations with Castro. Three others — Jamaica, Barbados and Trinidad-Tobago — have said they intend to recognize the Castro regime but Washington considers their intended action understandable because of their geographical position.

Most of the major Latin American countries, according to high administration officials, are not pressing for any change in the OAS position. Castro has lost most of the charisma he once projected among Latin Americans, U.S. officials say. And they acknowledge privately that his one-time subversive efforts in the hemisphere now are practically nonexistent.

However, so long as he continues his military ties with the Soviet Union and his refusal to acknowledge OAS obligations, the United States will undertake no peace overtures and most members of the OAS appear to support Washington's position.

Earlier this week there was a flurry of speculation that Washington might be softening its attitude. The State Department expressed its appreciation to Cuban officials "for the cooperation shown the aircraft crew and passengers" of a crippled Southern Airlines jet hijacked to Havana by three gunmen who extorted a reported $2 million from airline officials.

However this "friendly gesture," as a State Department spokesman described it, was simply an effort to maintain some cordiality in the hope of getting Castro to return the $2 million.

Blaze up high in Chicago

FLAMES shoot out the windows in the 100-story John Hancock Center building Wednesday in Chicago. The blaze apparently began in a restaurant on the 95th floor and spread to a cocktail lounge on the 96th floor. Firemen extinguished the blaze in less than an hour. Damage was estimated at $30,000. No injuries were reported. (UPI)

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — More than a year ago, the Bureau of Land Management ordered a house of prostitution off federal land at Basin in Mineral County.

But the Silver Princess is still operating at the same location. A spokesman for the BLM said Wednesday it now has assurances the house, which consists of several trailers, will vacate the premises by Dec. 1.

Jane Curtis, who now runs the Silver Princess, says, however she has not been notified she has to leave. She referred all questions to her attorney, William Beko, who is Nyo County district attorney.

Beko said Miss Curtis intends to move by Dec. 1 and is looking to lease private land. Miss Curtis leases the business from the former operator Erika Borg.

The BLM said then Miss Borg had private property to relocate but there were plumbing and foundation problems because of the heavy snow and cold wave.

But Miss Borg never moved and the operation continued through the summer and into this winter. Miss Borg bought the land from James Miltenberger who had purchased it earlier from Jewel Parsons, according to Beko.

However Beko said a title search showed it was public domain and could not be purchased. He said "We intend to comply with the demands of the BLM."

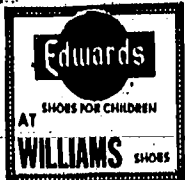

An unpatented mining claim on the land belongs to Greco Inc. of Los Angeles. It says it was unsuccessful in attempts to evict the bawdy house. But BLM then got into the fight. A spokesman said it finally took its case to the U.S. attorney's office and after that the agreement was reached to vacate the land by Dec. 1.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The entire present population of Louisiana's state bird, the brown pelican, was imported from Florida, according to a Florida game official.

Director Earle Rye of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission says the Louisiana population of the bird disappeared a few years ago, but that pelicans imported from Florida succeeded in hatching some chicks last year.

Son of murder victim in Viet

HAGERMAN — The son of a Eugene, Ore., woman, whose body was found in a Gooding County stream in 1971, has been reported taken prisoner in Vietnam.

The U.S. Navy listed Lt. Cmdr. Donald F. Lindland, 36, as an unconfirmed prisoner of war in Vietnam. His wife was advised by the navy that his plane was shot down over Hainphong, Sept. 6 and he was captured almost immediately.

His mother, Clara Mickelson, disappeared in March, 1970, while on a trip. Her body was found by four small boys playing along a stream on the Don Wallace farm, Hagerman.

Identity of Mrs. Mickelson was established by dental records. Gooding County officers say the murder has never been solved.

An autopsy indicated she died of a crushed chest and a gag was in her mouth when the body was found. Officers said it was not known if the murder occurred in Gooding County.

The woman's purse was found in Gooding almost a year before the body was discovered. Her abandoned car was found in Blackfoot March 7, 1970, and the body was not found until February of 1971.

Vatican denies tie with group

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said today the Vatican has no connection with a fund-raising organization called "Foundation of the Holy Land, Inc., Jerusalem."

"It seems this organization operates in various countries, especially in the United States, with the self-declared aim of gathering funds for the Holy Land," L'Osservatore said. "It has neither the explicit nor implicit approval of the Holy See nor of the competent local ecclesiastical authorities."

Rowin' down Main

TWO RESIDENTS of Luna Pier, Mich., row small boat down flooded Main Street of southeastern Michigan community past submerged vehicles which failed to make it to high ground ahead of floodwaters from nearby Lake Erie. Honestly, now

WEST POINT, N. Y. (UPI) — Honesty code aside, officials at West Point speculate that recent reports of a mustachioed ghost striding through cadets' quarters armed with a Civil War musket may be just a prank.

A spokesman at the U.S. Military Academy said two cadets reported the unearthly visitor a few days after a woman gave a lecture on the supernatural.

The ghost, wearing a massive handlebar mustache, supposedly visited the cadets' room shortly before midnight, toured with his musket as if on an inspection and then departed through a nearby wall — without so much as a salute.

Soviets claim Spiro unpopular

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet commentator today called Spiro T. Agnew an unpopular vice president and said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would probably defeat him in the next presidential election. Valentin Berezikov, writing in Literary Gazette, the weekly newspaper of the Soviet Writers Union, on U.S. election results, said even before this year's voting there was speculation Kennedy would be the Democratic nominee in 1976. "Edward Kennedy himself still evades the question," the commentator said, "but judging by everything, many people consider if the Republican party is going to nominate in 1976 the quite unpopular present vice president, Spiro Agnew, Edward Kennedy would have more realistic chances for success."

Canada faces fiscal, US problems

By PHIL NEWSOM — UPI Foreign News Analyst

The most difficult problems facing the new minority government of Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau involve the pocketbook and most of them also involve the United States.

Talks seeking a solution to issues disturbing relations between the two have dragged along on and off since last December and are to be resumed soon with Trudeau in a position something less than enviable.

Canada's Oct. 30 elections dashed Trudeau's hopes of retaining a comfortable majority in Parliament and left his Liberal Party instead in a 108 to 108 deadlock with the Conservatives and the Socialist New Democrats holding the balance with 31 seats.

Trudeau thus finds himself caught between two forces — the Conservatives who campaigned to remove "welfare loafers" from relief roles and the New Democrats whose leader, David Lewis, inveighed against "corporate welfare bums" which in many cases meant U.S. big business.

Among the most pressing problems demanding a solution at home are unemployment and inflation. Immigration is another problem.

All three relate to the all-important question of U.S.-Canadian trade and control of U.S. investment in the Canadian economy.

Canadian unemployment stands at around 7.1 per cent, among the highest of any industrialized country.

Welfare costs and unemployment insurance payments exceeded estimates by nearly $1 billion this year.

Remedial measures promised by Trudeau include tax cuts, incentives for employment and new anti-inflationary measures.

When U.S. and Canadian representatives adjourned their talks in a not-too-friendly atmosphere until after the recent elections they remained far apart on concessions demanded by the United States to help it erase its balance-of-payments deficit.

The United States especially demanded a revision of a 1965 pact providing duty-free entry into the United States of automobiles built in Canada's American-owned automobile plants.

The Canadians admit the pact has worked to their advantage but say the United States is taking the short-term view in that for many years the advantage lay on the other side.

In their eyes the pact is insurance of continued production and employment in Canadian plants.

With Canada's high unemployment rate, a change of mind is unlikely.

Suggesting an even tougher Canadian attitude is the fact that Trudeau's Liberal Party must have cooperation of the New Democrats if it is to remain in power.

It is offensive to Canadian nationalism that two-thirds of the country's manufacturing, oil and mineral production and forests are owned or controlled by U.S. interests.

Cenarrusa hits use of funds

By RICHARD CHIARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa asked this week for legal authority to do something it appears he already is required to do by law, a check of statutes showed Wednesday.

Earlier this week Cenarrusa said legislation was necessary to require the state to disseminate information explaining both sides of constitutional amendment proposals.

He called the use of federal and state tax funds during the current election year to promote passage of the governor's constitutional amendment on government reorganization "grossly unfair."

This he called particularly so because of those holding different or opposing views with regard to executive branch reorganization. Both Cenarrusa, a Republican, and Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon, a Democrat, opposed the proposal.

Study of the statutes showed the legislature in 1933 enacted a law requiring the secretary of state to publish a pamphlet on initiatives, referendums and constitutional amendments 90 days prior to any regular general election at which they were to be considered.

Section 34-1812, this law makes it mandatory the secretary of state do this — giving him no leeway in the matter. It says "shall cause to be printed."

Further wording of the law provides for publishing arguments by both sides on initiative petitions and referendum petitions but does not specify constitutional amendments.

Cenarrusa said he was aware of this law when he called for additional legislative authority to put out a pamphlet. However, he admitted the language of the law probably could be stretched to give him his requested authority at the present time.

He did publish, for six weeks prior to the election, the title and text of the constitutional amendments in newspapers generally circulated in each county — as required by the constitution.

But he did not publish a pamphlet on the amendments even though the law specifically requires him to do so.

"To publish it would be an act in futility," Cenarrusa said.

Without including arguments pro and con the pamphlet would not tell the electorate anything more than the ads he published in the newspapers, he said.

He said he did not publish the pamphlet "because we don't have an extra $23,000 to duplicate the ads." He said to do it over again would be "just throwing money down" a rathole.

Another law on the books requires the secretary of state to publish the attorney general's statement of meaning and purpose in the pamphlet as well as the text and title of the constitutional proposal.

But Cenarrusa said he does not think that goes far enough, either.

Accordingly, he said he still will ask the legislature to spell out specific authority for him to put out a voter information pamphlet with pro and con arguments on the amendments.

Bean agency head charged with 'nit-picking'

TWIN FALLS — Harold West, Idaho Bean Commission official, today was charged with "petty nit-picking."

The charge was made by Cecil Calhoun, Buhl farmer, in connection with the commission's handling of a letter written by Calhoun in which he called attention to the need for promoting the sale of commercial beans to Soviet Russia.

In a letter released last week to the media and to various officials, West was critical of Calhoun for releasing the "original" letter to the press before the commission had a chance to answer it. Calhoun had "inferred" the commission was dragging its feet in the matter.

On behalf of the commission, West said they were "alert" to any export demands but that it was very difficult to obtain information from Communist block countries. He said if there was any interest in bean purchase, then white beans, not pintos, would probably be acceptable.

In a letter to the editor of the Times-News, Calhoun said he was "amazed at the tabloid coverage you personally gave to what amounted to an emotional upset on the part of Mr. West. Before I released any items to the news media I wrote Mr. West and received no response. From this point I concluded he was not interested and felt free to act as an individual."

"But the question remains — why would you, in the very heart of our bean growing economy, enter into a personal upset of one man and possibly drag our farm economy down? No amount of self satisfaction you had can justify such reporting," Calhoun wrote.

In the letter to the Idaho Bean Commission, Dan Robinson, of the Idaho State Grange, KMTV-TV, and the Times-News, Calhoun said that early in October he had started this move "to expand our markets and the idea met with such enthusiastic response that a letter was sent to the commission. There was no response."

"Correspondence with leading bean exporters of two states, and with our congressmen, proved that a good market existed in Europe and in the satellite nations. From western Nebraska came the word that Russia has not been in the market but her satellite nations have."

"In reply to my presentation, Rep. Orval Hansen (he received the same letter the bean commission received) stated that 'your proposal has great merit. I feel keenly the need of support and suggest our agricultural economy wherever possible'."

In a direct reference to West's statements as published in the Times-News, Calhoun wrote: "Mr. West, in your petulant tirade you completely overlooked the key line in my entire proposal — that dry or table beans be included in the negotiated food sales to the Soviet Union. 'My release to the news media had been read by two members of the commission and no criticism was offered. Your entire squawk, Mr. West, seems based on one line 'it would appear that farmers, their organizations and perhaps the Idaho Bean Commission have been lax in not pressing for inclusion of dry or table beans to Russia.'"

Calhoun said in the letter West dwelled "on the difficulties" and did not offer "one positive suggestion. Every word was negative. Throw away the crying towels and get into the game."

In a direct question to the Times-News editor, Calhoun asked "whose bandwagon are you following, the farmers who support the economy of this state or a man who has taken offense at an individual?"

"Just why didn't you inquire into the other side of the story before you went off the deep end. I suggest that in yielding to the opportunity to take a 'cheap shot' at Calhoun, you may have done an irreparable damage to every bean grower in Idaho."

Calhoun, in the most recent letter to West, said that "the sale of any beans — red, white or chartrreuse — is too important to bog down in arguments that would be a gratuitous insult to an eighth grade schoolboy."

"The bean commission, the farm organization or the individual can only advocate and promote the proposition. So far I have heard no complaints from farmers because I used the word 'lax'."

"The day your office released the contention that it was useless to try to have beans included in the food sales to the Communist nations ... the price of pinto beans dropped 50 cents per hundred. Do I hear any whoops of joy that, by sheer coincidence, a 50 cent hole was punched in every sack of pinto beans?"

State roundup for furniture

BOISE (UPI) — There's a roundup going on in Idaho's statehouse — it doesn't concern cattle, but old furniture.

The roundup is being conducted by the Division of Building Services. The Division, under Administrative Services, is seeking out and repossessing old office furniture discarded by the supreme court when it moved to its new building.

Robert Lenaghan, director of Administrative Services explained the program.

"What I'm concerned with is that fine antiques might not be taken care of — might not be preserved. Some people appreciate fine furniture and others don't," he said.

Lenaghan leaned back in his chair, stretched his legs and — crossing his ankles — put his feet on the edge of his antique desk.

Lenaghan since he took office in 1971 has pioneered an effort to locate and restore at the penitentiary old state furniture which agencies, in the past years have consigned to the basement corners to gather dust. Many of the fine items now are in use or on display in his office suite and those of other state officials.

By action of the board of examiners, the supreme court furnishings were turned over to the Department of Administrative Services in September for disposition.

Much of the furniture is in the antique class and some of it will have to be renovated before it can be used. But Lenaghan believes many pieces have great value if properly restored.

Already, Lenaghan said, he has more requests for the furniture from various agencies and elected officials than there is furniture to go around. He said first he will round up the furniture and then, after an inventory, decide who should get it.

He said need may be one of the criteria. An assistant attorney general, for instance, has used a card table for a desk the past couple of weeks.

More than one piece of state furniture has wound up in an agency other than the one owning it. In years past there has been a much-honored practice of "Midnight requisitioning."

Lenaghan said just because some agency has "glommed on to some of the supreme court furniture" doesn't mean it can keep it. He said he has told administrator Thomas Payne of Building Services to retrieve it.

Roll top desks, umbrella stands, telephone stands, bookcases — all sorts of old and probably quite valuable wooden furniture is involved in the supreme court inventory given to Lenaghan.

Payne's men — on the trail of it for a couple of weeks now — go from one agency to another with a general description of the furniture and the serial number which should be on it. When they find some they notify the present user of plans to repossess and within reasonable time, go after it.

Snow shadows at Ketchum

Blaine, Camas to seek special aid

The study also includes an explanation of the seasonal type of employment patterns that exist in the county due largely to the nature of business at the Sun Valley resort area and agriculture.

"The unemployment picture, then, cannot be expected to improve," the report concludes. "On the contrary, the seasonal highs in employment are expected to bring with them slightly increased unemployment rates, and the seasonal slumps are expected to get much worse as more and more workers will be laid off each year."

And in a seeming contradiction, the report says, "Thus, although the economic growth of the area paints an optimistic picture, opportunities for the average worker are not expected to improve."

The report prepared for Camas County, also written by Hodge, draws similar conclusions. It notes the annual unemployment rate in the county during 1971 was 8.1 per cent of the labor force, with seasonal fluctuations due to the cyclical nature of agricultural activities and the area's only industry, one sawmill.

"The situation in Camas County is not expected to improve in the near future," the study says. "The rate of unemployment is expected to jump after harvest activities and lumbering come to a halt for the winter. The rate could climb as high as 18 per cent on the labor force during the winter ahead."

And finally, "Seasonality will be the keynote for workers in the area who can always expect jobs in the summer — and relatively hard times in the winter."

Beeman said that another Magic Valley county, Jerome, had previously qualified for the economic development funds, and Eden and Hazelton had expressed interest in public works programs.

The latest government list of eligible areas, however, does not include Jerome. Beeman attributed to dropping of the county to the recent location of major industries in the area, including Moore Business Forms, Inc. and Tupperware, Inc.

If Camas and Blaine Counties are eligible, they will join Adams, Teton, Boise, Valley, Clearwater, Bonner, Idaho, and Bear Lake counties and part of Benewah County on the official government list, Beeman said.

Jerome site proposed

The sites include: — Joslin Field, the present Twin Falls City-County Airport four miles south of Twin Falls, designated by the study as site 1.

— An area two miles north of Twin Falls between the Perrine Bridge and the Interstate 80 interchange, site 2.

— An area north of the interstate interchange, three miles north of site 2 and east of U.S. Highway 93, site 3.

— A spot eight miles northeast of Twin Falls, three miles north of the Hansen Bridge, site 4.

— An area four miles southwest of Shoshone, off U.S. Highway 93, site 5.

The study foresees a rapid buildup in the demand for airline service in the Magic Valley, largely because of the expected recreation developments in the Sun Valley area.

One of the engineers told the board the airline industry has realized its potential in the businessmen flights, but is just beginning to develop its recreation, family oriented market.

Studies based on the projected development at Sun Valley, a new Holiday Inn north of Ketchum, Elkhorn Development and other projects could push the Magic Valley airline demand by 1982 to the current Boise market.

And, the engineers said, the Magic Valley has the potential to become a "major jet continental travel center within the next ten years."

"From the demand forecast," the airport authority board members were told, "it was estimated that a direct route to Denver by 1982 and a direct route to Chicago by 1992 from the South Idaho Regional Airport will be not only economically feasible but actually necessary to handle forecasted traffic."

Of the five sites, the engineers eliminated the one near Shoshone because of its relative inaccessibility from the interstate and the southern part of the Magic Valley.

The site just north of the Perrine Bridge and south of the Interstate 80 interchange and the area north of the Hansen Bridge largely on the environmental factors of noise pollution and disturbances forecast to wildlife and recreational parks areas.

The "unofficial recommendation" to move the site of the proposed regional site from the present Joslin Field was based largely on its relative inaccessibility from the Sun Valley and other recreational areas, although the engineers specified that the present site is "of interest."

Of the two sites favored by the engineers, site 3 North of the Perrine Bridge would require expenditures of $7.8 million for phase 1 construction, including land acquisition, runway construction, a self-contained water treatment plant for the airport service facilities, while the present Joslin Field, if updated, would cost $4.3 million.

But by the completion of three phase construction as projected by the engineers, the cost difference would reverse markedly, with Joslin Field costing $13.5 million and site 3 north of the interstate interchange running to an estimated $13.3 million, or slightly less.

Another preliminary report study is expected to be completed within a month and made public.

Rupert sets blood drawing Tuesday

RUPERT — A quarterly Red Cross bloodmobile drawing will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Rupert Civic Auditorium.

Mrs. Dorothy Burton, Minidoka County blood drawing co-chairman, said a 125-pint quota has been set for the day.

Local residents have used 79 pints of blood at Minidoka Memorial Hospital and 81 pints in other hospitals since the last bloodmobile visit, according to Mrs. Burton.

Those needing blood replacement include LeRoy Decker, 15 pints; Dr. Carl Keeley, 14 pints; Opal Mittlestedt, 3 pints; David M. Burns, 11 pints, and Lois Teeter, 4 pints, all Rupert.

Blood donors may designate a specific person to be credited with their donation. Mrs. Burton said the county program could use donations totaling 200 pints since 160 pints have been used during the past quarter.

The Minidoka blood drawing team includes Mrs. Burton and Mrs. Norma Thurgood, co-chairmen; Dr. A. F. Dalley, in charge of doctor recruitments; Mrs. Mary Carlson, registered nurse recruitments; Mrs. Norma Youngman, O negative blood recruitment, and Mrs. Amelia Rawlins, canteen chairman.

The Minico High School chapter of Future Homemakers of America will operate the canteen Tuesday. The Lutheran Ladies Guild will prepare and serve lunch to bloodmobile workers.

Tentative approval on budget

TWIN FALLS — A South Central Idaho Health District budget, which administrative officials say curtails next year's programs, has been tentatively adopted.

Members of the district's budget committee, comprised of the chairmen of county commissions in the district's eight counties, voted unanimously here Wednesday to levy $1.75 per capita for the coming year.

This is considerably below the $2.25 requested by district medical director, Dr. Wayne Carle. He had hoped for a $30,000 new building budget this year.

The $1.75 per capita will raise $180,193 from the eight counties and with the state funds available give the district a total budget of $349,731, board chairman William Chancey, Twin Falls, said.

He said a public hearing on the budget will be held Dec. 4 in conjunction with the district board meeting at 2 p.m. in the Jerome County courthouse.

Board members meeting with the budget committee Wednesday accepted the committee's recommendation for $1.75 per capita assessment, pending final approval following the hearing.

Hammett store destroyed

The police chief and mayor in Glens Ferry were awakened and agreed to send their tanker truck and two men, but said they could not allow other fire equipment to leave the town.

By the time the tanker arrived, the flames were in control. Moreover, Hammett has no municipal water supply, and every time the tanker was emptied it had to be driven back to Glens Ferry to get more water.

The structure of a garage and shop adjoining the store was saved, although it received some interior damage. Waller said that some effective fire fighting was done in the early stages by his son Gary and a neighbor, Don Behnemer, who had had fire fighting training in the U.S. Navy.

Waller has no estimate of the cost.

Waller bought the store in Hammett just before World War II and had operated it more than ten years when it burned down July 27, 1950. That fire started in a pile of gunnysacks someone had left behind the store.

When it was over, Waller said, "I had a $10,000 insurance settlement and I owed $10,000 on the mortgage. So by the time I paid off the mortgage I had a pile of rubble left for ten years' work."

But he borrowed back the $10,000 and about that much more and, he said, "learned how to lay cinderblocks and be a carpenter and a plumber and all that." He built a new store on the site, and, over the years, added to it — the garage, and, this fall, a lean-to for storage.

In fact, he and Wayne Spangler just finished work on the lean-to, yesterday and moved their sawhorse and other equipment out of the building last night.

He said business has been good at the store and said, "Oh, yes, I'll rebuild. It's too valuable a corner to just let go."

He had leased the building to Ken Phillips last April and had been operating his farm while Phillips and his wife operated the store. Phillips is also the mechanic at the garage.

A Mountain Home Air Force Base fire truck responded to the fire call after the Glens Ferry department had gone to work. The fire was still burning at surprise, with both fire trucks standing by in case other buildings nearby were endangered.

New Rupert structure

NEW CHAMBER of commerce building for Rupert is now under construction. Work is reported on schedule for the new building to be located at 301 Avenue and F Street. Crews are preparing to work on the roofing in the near future.

Plaque awarded

MRS. A. J. PEAVEY has been awarded a plaque by members of the Twin Falls unit of the American Association of University Women in recognition of her many years of membership in and involvement with the organization. Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband complained that he was too exhausted after work to mow our lawn, so my 13-year-old son and I did it, and believe me, it was no small job.

Meanwhile my husband disappeared. About sundown I was shaking the mop from an upstairs bedroom window and I happened to look across the way, and there was "Exhausted" hammering away on my neighbor's roof! My neighbor is a young, pretty widow who I hear hasn't paid (in cash) to get anything done around her house since her husband died last year.

Well, I went right over there and climbed up the ladder he used to get on her roof, and I hit him a good one with the mop. I told him that if he had that much energy to get on home because I had a few jobs for him. The widow saw it all and chuckled. He came home shortly afterward but was so mad he wouldn't speak to me. All thru supper he wouldn't even look at me, and that was the first night we ever went to bed mad.

Tired hubby

Now, you be the judge, Abby. Should I be mad at him for refusing to mow the lawn, but going next door to work on that lady's roof? Or should he be mad at me for going after him and making him come home?

RIGHT OR WRONG

DEAR R OR W: It's a draw. But a man is slow to forgive a woman who publicly belittles him. You should have let him take his own sweet time getting home—and THEN hit him with the mop!

DEAR ABBY: When someone carries a cake, pie, salad or something like that to my home, I never return the pan or bowl if it came in empty. My mother taught me that.

Well, yesterday my sister-in-law dropped off a collection of my pots, pans, and bowls she'd had at her house for over a year. They weren't empty, either. And do you know what she had in them? A bill for storage!

Was this supposed to be funny? NOT LAUGHING

DEAR NOT—I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old man with an 89-year-old problem. My mother-in-law lives with us and we haven't had a decent night's sleep in two years.

Before then, for 23 years, my wife and her older sister took turns keeping Mom. One sister would keep her until she gave out, then the other one would take her until SHE gave out. There are two brothers who tried to keep Mom, but after the second day they called and screamed, "Come and get her, she is driving us nuts!"

My wife's sister died two years ago, but my wife promised her on her deathbed she'd never put Mom in a home. Mom won't eat unless you feed her, and she has to be bathed and looked after like a child.

I haven't slept with my wife in two years because we've had to keep our bedroom door opened in case Mom calls us or falls out of bed. And with the door open Mom wanders in and out of our room all night long.

I'm afraid my wife is heading for a nervous breakdown. I know Mom belongs in a home and her sons have offered to foot the bill, but my wife doesn't want to go back on her word.

What is your advice? WHIPPED IN TENNESSEE

DEAR WHIPPED: Deathbed promises are usually charged with emotion, so the word from here is to put Mom in a home. And tell your wife she needn't feel guilty. The Lord is all forgiving and compassionate, and He will understand.

D'Artagnan was not only the greatest swordsman in France but he was a great strategist. He knew there was a time for daring and a time for safety.

What should he do after the wily Rochefort jumped to four hearts? A mere four-spade call was likely to be an underbid. A heart cue-bid would probably just elicit a further diamond bid from Porthos sitting North. A six-spade bid might leave him high and dry and wrecked on the rocks of distribution, but D'Artagnan tried that bid.

Rochefort considered a seven-heart save, but he had too much defense and he knew that all D'Artagnan's slams were not guaranteed by the Bank of France. Jussac opened a heart. D'Artagnan ruffed and saw that the way to follow up his daring bid was with extreme caution in the play.

Watch the safe way he played the slam. At trick two he cashed the ace of clubs. Then he led a diamond to dummy's ace and played a second club from dummy to guard against the possibility that Rochefort had been dealt just one club.

When the club was not ruffed the hand was home.

D'Artagnan led a low club: ruffed with dummy's king of trumps; led a heart and ruffed with his ace of trumps as a paper safety play; then ruffed this last club with dummy's five of trumps and told his opponents that one of them could take his queen of trumps any time he wished.

A—Every once in a while you find yourself painted into a corner. We slightly favor a pass, but would not criticize a two-spade call if you want to bid once more.

BASIS OF BEAUTIFUL EYES

By Mary Sue Miller

When it comes to eye beauty, the stress is on eye cosmetics. The eyes do, indeed, gain allure with skillful makeup.

CARELESS

CAREFUL

Still, there is need of basic care. What good is makeup if the eyes are dull, bleary or strained? For clarity and sparkle they require care. Try to follow a minimal program, even in the hectic season ahead. You'll be the bright-eyed belle. Here's what you do:

• If you need glasses wear them. Eyes that squint to see reflect neither beauty nor health. Frames these days actually possess cosmetic virtues, as do tinted contacts.

• Have your vision checked at least once yearly, whether or not you wear glasses. Early December's a good time.

• Make sure close work is properly illuminated. A shaded bulb of at least 100 watts is obligatory. It should be placed to cast a glare-free, uniform light. Other lights are needed in the room to chase away shadows.

• Avoid long stretches of close work, also reading and TV viewing; look away every half hour, if only for a few seconds. To relieve fatigued feelings, close your eyes and arrange your hands like cups over the lids (never press the lids) until you see "black velvet." Then, lower hands and blink 10 times quickly; bathe closed eyes with splashes of cool water.

• A balanced diet, lots of sleep and large amounts of fresh air are as tonic to the eyes as to the whole girl.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Exchange Club hears Tjarks

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Eugene Tjarks was the speaker at Tuesday's meeting of the Twin Falls Exchange Club at the Turf Club.

Rev. Tjarks, Our Savior Lutheran Church, centered his remarks around the November Exchange Club theme, "One Nation Under God." He commented that he preferred "Our Nation Under God" to imply that you and I are a part of the nation and that we are involved as well as God being involved.

He said that according to our Constitution and Bill of Rights, our religious worship beliefs cannot be legislated.

In his closing remarks, Rev. Tjarks said that we need to be attached to God in worship and prayer in order for God to be attached to us. This is needed to follow the concept of a nation under God.

Next week's Exchange Club meeting will host Francis Egbert, the district representative of Exchange Club, who will bring members up to date concerning national and district activities.

All members and prospective members are invited to the meeting Tuesday at the Turf Club, the day and site of each meeting.

Be feminine, don't smoke

NEW YORK (UPI) — "How can you be sexy and smell of cigarettes?"

With those words actress Eva Gabor Tuesday kicked off a new drive by the American Cancer Society to get more women smokers to quit.

Called "I Quit (IQ), the new campaign is designed to "spur a grass roots movement" to motivate "smokers to quit, and non smokers not to start."

Miss Gabor, national women's chairman of IQ, told a news conference she quit smoking eight years ago "because cigarettes never did anything for me."

"Smoking is bad for glamour and that's something I think women are very much concerned about," Miss Gabor said. "Here you are, feeling right, looking right, perturbed and with the man of your life — and the whole thing goes up in smoke when you light a cigarette."

"It just doesn't go with your perfume, girls," she said. "Besides, darlings, how can you be sexy and smell of cigarettes?"

Miss Gabor said she had "blackmailed" one of her husbands into quitting cigarettes by "leaving him and flying to Europe. Of course he followed me," she explained. "But I told him I wouldn't come back to him unless he gave up smoking."

She said she had to send her latest boyfriend to a psychiatrist to get rid of his smoking problem.

Miss Gabor was introduced by Dr. Luther Terry, consultant on tobacco and cancer to the ACS and former U. S. surgeon general, who said the new antismoking drive was aimed at women because "more women are becoming heavy smokers, and fewer are quitting than men."

He said that during 1971 the number of women smokers rose to a record 21 million.

Specifically among teen-age girls, Terry said, smoking increased from one in every 12 in 1968 to one in every eight in 1971. He said the rate among teen-age girls is "now close to the rate for teen-age boys — one in seven — which has been dropping."

Terry said that "Quit Clinics are being set up to help those who are ready to stop smoking."

He said the Cancer Society is also shifting its anti-smoking campaign to "provide encouragement for persons to quit by giving evidence that people are giving up smoking."

Asked by Miss Gabor if she smoked, one woman reporter present at the news conference admitted she did.

Miss Gabor advised her: "Oh darling! Why don't you make love! I'm sure you can find something more exciting to do than smoke cigarettes."

Millionth car searched

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Combat-ready British troops searched Mrs. Rosemary Brand's car for weapons and explosives. Then they presented her with champagne and flowers.

The reason?

Her car was the 1,000,000th searched by the officers and men of the Royal Horse Artillery's 3rd battalion and that, they figured, called for something special.

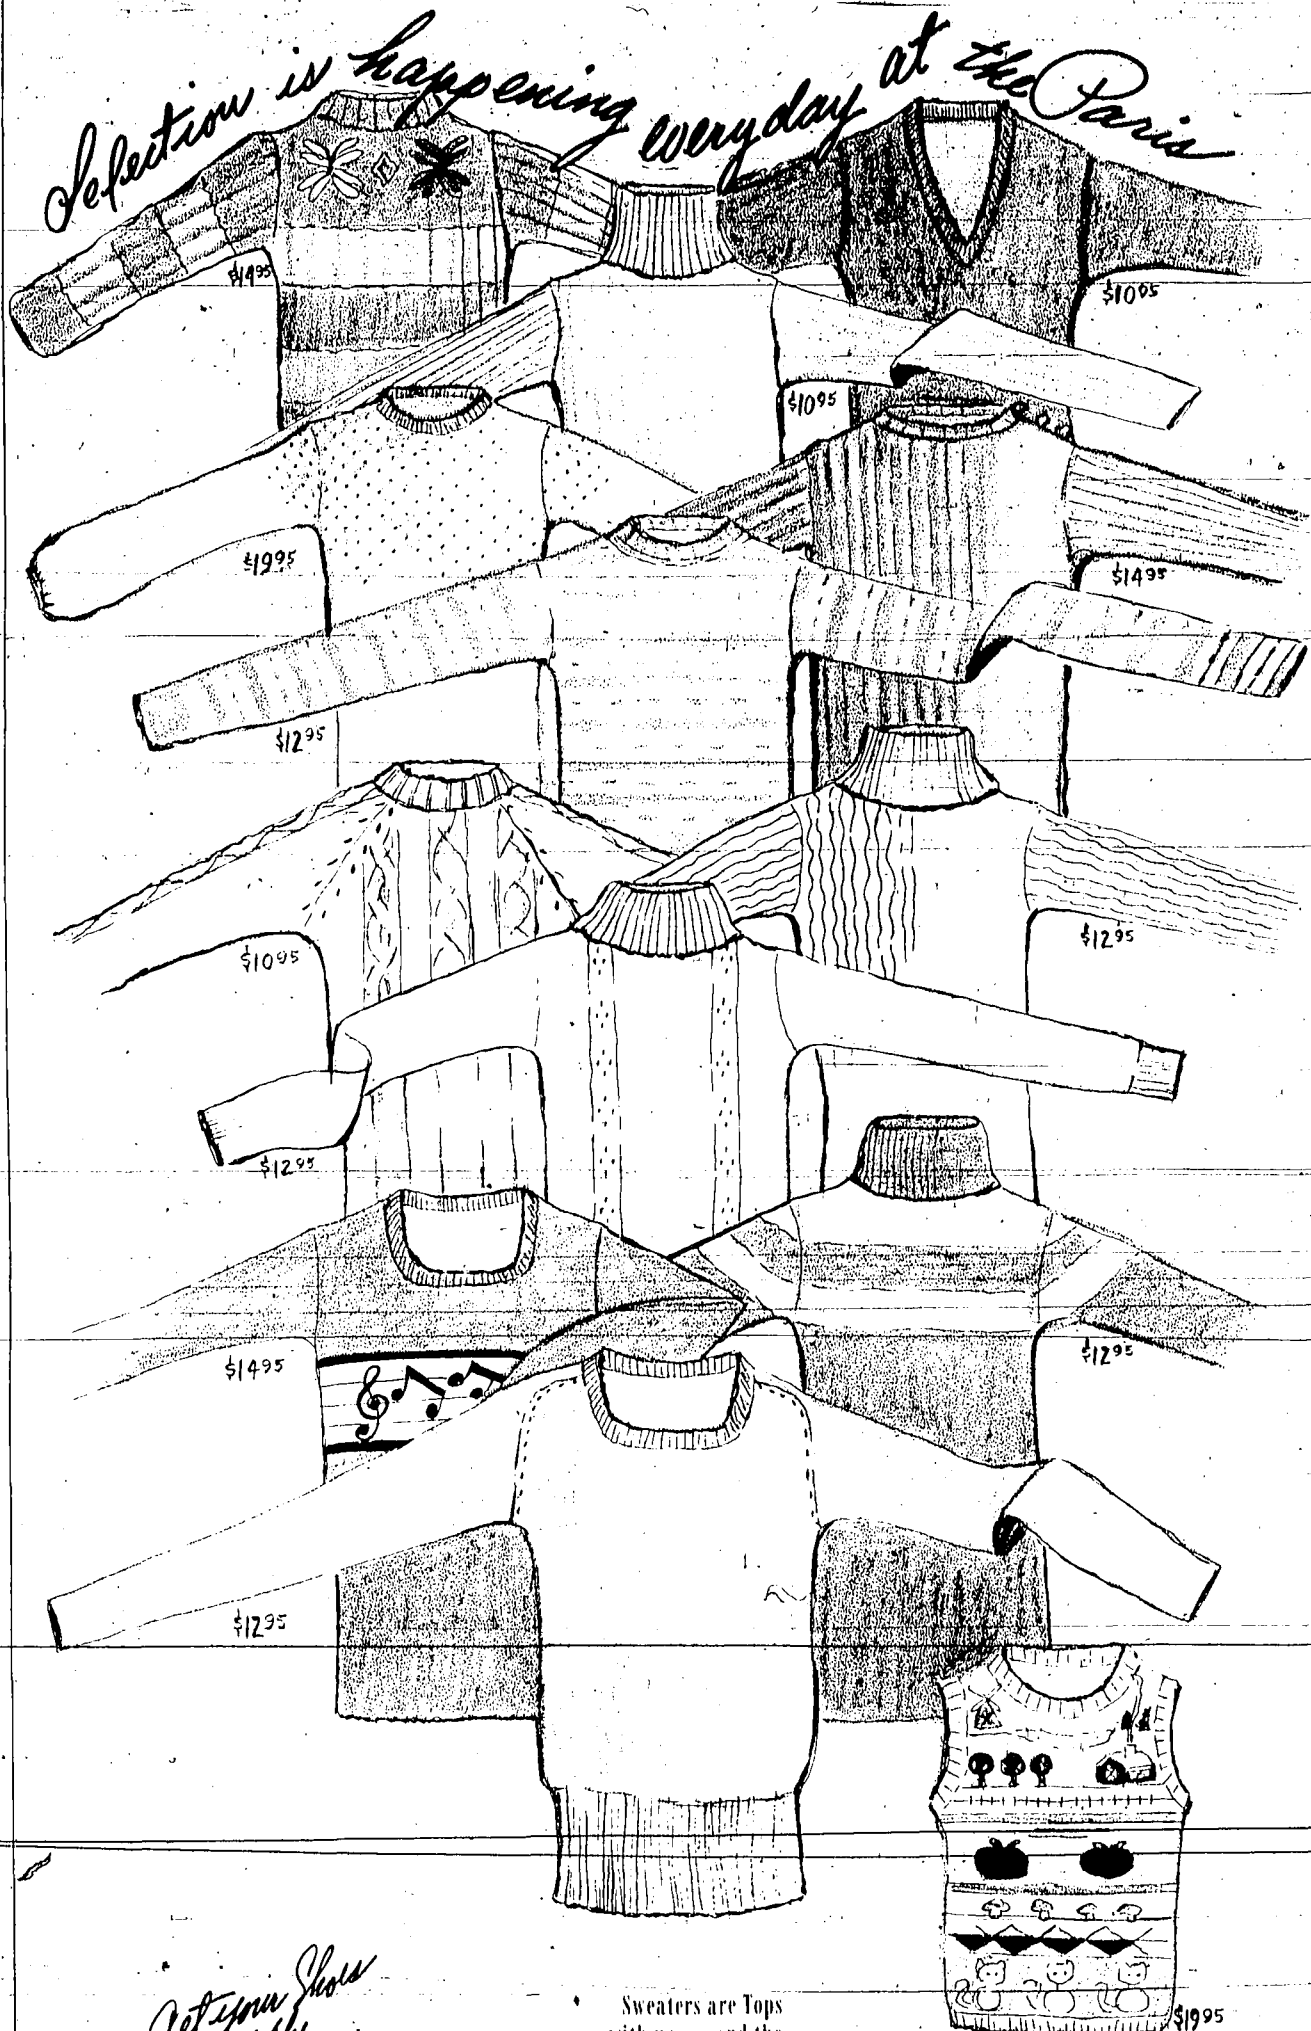

They found no arms or explosives.

Development unit plans TF meeting

TWIN FALLS — Community-wide environmental benefits will have first priority when a local development group meets Monday. The group will discuss provisions and guidelines for operation of the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) in Twin Falls County for 1973.

Leaders of civic, conservation, and environmental groups have been invited to consult with and advise the Twin Falls County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee which will administer REAP, said — Kent — Kirk, county executive director of ASCS. The meeting will be held in the county ASCS office and anyone interested in attending the meeting is welcome.

REAP is a conservation cost-sharing program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, under which farmers and the government share the cost of conservation and environmental practices needed in the public interest. REAP offers a way through which farmers can aid in the environmental cleanup of our county.

Farmers pay part of the cost, and the federal government pays part of the cost for the conservation practices approved by the county ASC committee and carried out by the farmers, Kent Kirk said. Newsletters will be mailed to farmers giving specific details of the program and how they can participate as soon as the county program has been developed, Kirk said.

Sugar beet crop restriction off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Beet sugar on hand in the United States is far below the expected need and next year's crop will not be restricted by acreage allotments, the Agriculture Department said today.

The sugar beet crops of 1967 through 1969 were unrestricted, but farm acreage allotments were set up in 1970 to hold down the supply. In 1971 and this year, the crops were free of the restrictions again.

Despite that, the Agriculture Department said, "the effective inventory as Jan. 1, 1973 — sugar on hand plus 1972 crop beet sugar produced after that date — will probably be about 2,816 million tons, a quantity considerably below the desired level."

Therefore, there will be no acreage allotments for the 1973 crop, the department said.

Production of sugar from 1972 plantings extends into the next year.

This year, 1.5 million acres of sugar beets were planted. Farm officials estimated production will be around 3.3 million tons — 100,000 tons short of the adjusted market quota for the sugar beet area.

Nevada stockmen hit fee changes

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada livestockmen were on record today as opposed to changing present grazing fees, Board of Agriculture responsibilities, and methods for assessing rural land for taxes.

The Nevada State Cattlemen's Association and the Nevada State Wool Growers Association stated their position in resolutions adopted at their joint convention which ended Tuesday.

They endorsed the present method and procedure used in assessment for tax purposes of commercially operated agricultural lands.

Jack Hunter, chairman of the State Tax Commission, has contended ranch land is assessed too low and methods should be changed to reflect sales prices in recent years. "The associations asked for a moratorium on grazing fee increases scheduled for the coming season. They said the fees should be held at the 1972 level until congress can set the level, rather than having fees determined by the interior department."

They opposed a proposal to eliminate the State Board of Agriculture, transferring most of the board's duties to a proposed Department of Business, Industry and Agriculture and giving identification responsibilities to the Department of Public Safety.

Other resolutions adopted would: — Oppose withdrawal of areas of public lands for wilderness purposes; — Favor a statewide bounty system on coyotes in 13 Western states; — Oppose any attempt to appropriate water in violation of the Nevada state water law by any federal agency, and would maintain state supremacy in matters of water and water rights; — Support efforts to establish in the Elko area a diagnostic facility for faster handling of disease problems. The area is too far removed from present facilities at Reno, Stockmen said.

Stanley Ellison of Elko was named "cattlemen of the year." Ira Kent of Fallon was elected cattlemen's association president. New vice presidents are John Marvel of Battle Mountain, Dal Byington of Gardnerville and Bob Wright of Elko.

Deloyd Satterwaith of Elko County was elected president of the wool growers association. Joe Ugalde of White Pine County was elected vice president.

Senators schedule meet with Soviets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Henry Bellmon, R-Okla.,

will go to Moscow Nov. 27 for meetings with Soviet officials.

Bellmon said Tuesday he hoped to discuss with the Russians better access to information on Soviet crop conditions for American agricultural attaches. Bellmon said U.S. officials who helped negotiate the recent Russian grain deal did so without knowing the seriousness of the situation in Russia.

Humphrey and Bellmon will be accompanied by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis. They expect to meet with Premier Alexi N. Kosygin and Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Commerce and Housing and Urban Development departments said there were 1,641,100 privately-owned housing units under construction at the end of September. This was slightly above the total at the end of August and 28 per cent more than at the end of September last year.

Tigers, Knights clash for A-2 championship

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor
JEROME — The Jerome Tigers and Bishop Kelly Knights battle for what is termed the state A-2 football championship at 8 p.m. Friday at the Jerome field. It should be a battle.

It will, promises Jerome Coach Ed Peterson, be a battle up front. "If we can get our guys in the trenches going, we can give them a heck of a game," he says.

Coach Peterson says this will be the biggest backfield his Tigers have faced this year. "Their fullback, Post, goes about 215, and their tailback is a boy named Burn. He's a fine runner and started for them last year. Their quarterback, Jacette, did not appear to be a great thrower in the game we scouted Bishop Kelly but he was very impressive running the ball."

However, Coach Peterson isn't putting total emphasis on running defense. "We talked to two coaches who went into games against Kelly expecting a lot of passes and they only threw a few times. In other games, they've thrown a lot."

Kelly using an I formation which generates a lot of blocking power. The Knights have a good-sized line plus the fullback at 215 pounds becomes a blocker on most of the plays.

Kelly opened the season with losses to Meridian and Burley, then won eight straight. Jerome was topped 10-0 by Twin Falls in its first game and took the next nine. The teams have two common opponents. Kelly dropped a 16-13 decision to Burley while Jerome defeated the Bobcats 14-0. Against Mountain Home, Jerome slipped by 14-12 while Bishop Kelly won 34-20.

Coach Peterson reports his team is the healthiest of the season. "We've got them all ready to play. We'll have no excuses," he says.

Jerome's hopes lie in the defensive unit, which has run up three shutouts in its last four outings. Observers believe Bishop Kelly is the more explosive offensively of the two clubs. That means the Tigers will have to turn off the homerun play. Its defense then will be called on to prevent marches.

Jerome's forte over the season has been the grinding march that not only eats up time and gets points but physically hurts the opponent all the way down the field.

It will be the second playoff meeting between the two with Jerome topping the Knights 14-0 last year.

Dick Allen is picked American League MVP

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dick Allen, baseball's erstwhile bad boy, was voted the most valuable player in the American League Wednesday and said humbly, "I hope I'm worthy of it."

Allen, whose 1972 season with the Chicago White Sox was his fourth consecutive with a different team, said "I'd like to thank everybody that had a hand in this."

"Especially, I want to thank everybody I played with. A lot of people think this is an individual game but it takes a team and a team effort to win this."

Allen, while pleased with the honor, said he didn't think it was his greatest goal in baseball.

He said he had not thought about winning the most valuable player award but he was regarded as a virtual shoo-in by almost everyone else. He led the league in home runs with 37 and in runs-batted-in with 113 while batting .308.

Allen said he thought probably Joe Rudi of the Oakland Athletics would win the MVP award because usually it goes to a member of the championship team. Rudi finished second, far behind Allen in the voting with a total of 164 points.

Allen thanked Johnny Ogden, scout for the Philadelphia Phillies who signed him to his first professional contract, for bearing up under the criticism and continuing to encourage Allen to play.

Allen, the second White Sox player to win the MVP honor, played eight years in the National League. He was in Philadelphia in 1969, St. Louis in 1970 and Los Angeles in 1971 before being traded to Chicago.

"I thought what are they trying to do to me," he said. "But I found a home in Chicago. It was a blessing in disguise and I'm glad I came."

Allen, who was also National League Rookie-of-the-year in 1964, said he appreciated "any kind of honor."

"But it really hasn't hit me yet," he said. "When I'm ready to retire, I'll probably look back and it will hit me."

DICK ALLEN ... MVP

Three other players received single first-place votes. Sparky Lyle of the New York Yankees finished behind Rudi with 150 points, Carlton Fisk of Boston was fourth and Bobby Murcer of the Yankees fifth.

"I'm not going to quit until we have brought a little more pleasure to the Chicago fans," he said. "I came here specifically to win and I'm disappointed we didn't."

"The fans of Chicago have done a lot for me. I don't say I've been fair to the people in baseball, but sometimes they haven't been fair to me. Coming to Chicago made a human being out of me."

Allen, traded by the Los Angeles Dodgers to the White Sox a year ago for lefthanded pitcher Tommy John, was the only player named on every ballot cast by the 24 voting baseball writers. He was listed first by 21 of them and second by three to amass 321 points.

Owner, game lost by WHL Raiders

By United Press International
The New York Raiders set a World Hockey Association first Wednesday night when they lost their owner as well as a game.

The financially-plagued Raiders were placed in trusteeship by the WHA while prospective buyers of the club are to be screened. Dick Wood, the former owner, said expenses in New York were about three times as much as he had anticipated. He reportedly was looking for buyers for several weeks.

"We are seeking investors who offer more than money," said WHA President Gary Davidson. "We also want owners to have a strong partnership with others in the league and a business knowledge that will help make the club solvent."

The Raiders made it a gloomy night all around as they blew a 4-3 lead at Quebec City to drop a 7-4 decision to the Nordiques. Alain Caron scored the first hat trick in Nordique history, touching off a third period rally when Quebec scored four goals. Robert Guindon, Andre Gaudette and Jean Guy Gendron also scored for the Nordiques in the final period as Quebec moved into a first place tie with the Cleveland in the East Division.

The Alberta Oilers climbed into a first place tie with Winnipeg in the West by downing the Jets 3-1 and in the only other action of the night the Los Angeles Sharks beat the Houston Aeros 6-4.

Ron Walters scored a pair of goals for Albert in the third period to decide that contest before a sellout crowd of 5,200 in Winnipeg and Bob Jones scored his first two goals of the season in the final period to provide Los Angeles with its winning margin at Houston.

Unser runs close to Gold gloves 200 M.P.H. announced

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Bobby Unser Wednesday flirted with the elusive 200 miles per hour barrier at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Unser turned in a top speed Wednesday of 197.345 m.p.h. during the tests. Unser holds the official track record of 196.678, set during qualifying last spring for the Indianapolis "500."

His best time Wednesday was caught by the electric timer, but it's still unofficial since records are kept only for time trials and the race itself.

Johnny Rutherford had top laps Wednesday around 190 m.p.h., while A.J. Foyt, the third driver working on the tests, had his machine out for a shakedown run only.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Baltimore's Brooks Robinson and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente headed their respective leagues in balloting by the players and managers for the Gold Glove awards, the Sporting News announced Wednesday in naming its All-Star fielding team.

The poll conducted by the national sports weekly gave the most votes to Robinson, who was picked as the American League's top defensive third baseman for the 13th time in the 15 years league managers and coaches have selected the nine-man squads.

Clemente was picked to the fielding team for the 12th time and polled more votes than any other National League player.

Bowl excitement hides NCAA offense leaders

By United Press International
With the college football season in its final stages and bowl scouts stampeding the stadia of top ranked teams seeking prospective crowd-pleasers, the players who made all this happen sometimes get lost in the shuffle.

Two outstanding stars who fail to achieve the headlines consistently because they do not play for major powers are Don Strock of Virginia Tech and Howard Stevens of Louisville.

Strock leads the nation in total offense with a 303.8 per game average and is the top passer in major college circles with 2,760 yards gained. Stevens also is a double leader, heading all rushers with a 140.9 game average and topping the all-purpose runners with a 234.5 game mark. Stevens and Harold Henson of Ohio State are tied for the scoring lead at 11.3 points a game.

Not rated among the top-20 rushers, but perhaps the most vital cogs in the battle for the Pacific 8's Rose Bowl berth, are the conference's two leading ground gainers—Kernell Johnson of UCLA and Anthony Davis of Southern California.

Johnson, with one game remaining, has rushed for 876 yards for an 87.6 yard average for his 10 games. Davis is averaging 84.1 for the same span.

Top-ranked Southern Cal is a 13-point choice over UCLA to complete its first perfect season since 1962 and play in the Rose classic for the 18th time. The Trojans have an enviable 12-5 bowl record.

Alabama, moved up to the challenging No. 2 post in the ratings this week, has clinched its second straight Southeastern Conference title and now is one of the most sought-after teams for post-season play. The SEC titlist usually goes to the Orange Bowl, but there are reports Alabama may take a crack at the Cotton Bowl this time.

No. 3 Michigan preps for its Big Ten showdown with Ohio State next week by taking on the Purdue Bollermakers Saturday and No. 4 Oklahoma is looking past Kansas for a Thanksgiving Day meeting with Nebraska that could have tremendous bearing on the Big Eight title. No. 5 Nebraska hooks up with Kansas State in its preparatory contest and ninth-ranked Ohio State faces Northwestern.

Funds will build memorial center

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A fund-raising campaign to build a $4 million sports center at Tel Aviv University as a memorial to the 11 slain Israeli Olympic team members was announced Wednesday in Washington.

A $125-a-plate dinner featuring sports and other celebrities will provide the kick-off of the campaign Nov. 29, according to Abe Pollin, president of the Baltimore Bullets and co-chairman of the event.

Pollin and his co-sponsor, Milton Polinger, said funds raised through the dinner and contributions will be used to construct an Olympian Memorial Center for Physical Education at the university which presently has no indoor facilities.

It will be dedicated to the 11 Israeli team members who were killed in Munich at the Olympic games by Arab terrorists.

Pollin said the goal of the U.S. fund drive will be $2 million with the Israeli government contributing an additional $2 million.

Elizabeth not richest individual

LONDON (UPI) — Is Queen Elizabeth the richest woman in the world? She is not. She is rich but there are many wealthier individuals and families in the world.

The queen's wealth or lack of it is always a fascinating topic for discussion in newspapers and magazines. Since the royal family rarely denies a published statement the authors are free to let fancy fly—$100 million? $200 million? More?

In 1971 Prince Philip began dropping hints that the monarchy was having trouble making ends meet on the amount allotted to the sovereign by Parliament—the so-called Civil List—which had remained unchanged since it was set at 475,000 sterling ($1,140,000) when she ascended the throne in 1952.

Critics of the increase charged the queen was rich enough to absorb any additional costs herself. Advocates of the increase said that whatever the Windsor private fortune it was the obligation of the government to meet any further costs.

The parliamentary hearings on the royal finances made it clear the queen "commands" great wealth but a great deal of it belongs not to her but to the monarchy. She cannot sell the crown jewels, which have few equals in the world; she cannot sell the great works of art such as the Leonardo da Vinci sketchbooks; she cannot sell the royal palaces or the royal stamp collection valued at over $2,400,000.

If she could dispose of these and the hereditary lands of her Duchy of Lancaster, some 52,000 acres; parcels of land in London and elsewhere and great estates in Cornwall—she would be one of the richest persons on earth, if not the richest. But since she can't, one of her advisers said he thought her strictly personal fortune was about 2 million sterling ($4.8 million).

After considering all the evidence the parliamentary committee gave the queen a Civil List raise of better than 100 per cent to 985,000 sterling ($2,352,000). This money is intended for the salaries and expenses of the royal household, the royal bounty, alms and special services.

The committee also gave other members of the royal family increases.

Philip was raised from 40,000 sterling ($96,000) to 65,000 sterling ($156,000); Queen Mother Elizabeth from 70,000 sterling ($168,880) to 95,000 sterling ($228,800). Princess Margaret from 15,000 sterling ($36,000) to 35,000 sterling ($84,000). Princess Anne from 5,000 sterling ($14,400) to 15,000 sterling ($36,000).

Prince Charles, heir to the throne, is amply taken care of from the rich revenues of his Duchy of Cornwall.

Passengers charge airline security lax

By United Press International

A Southern Airways official said Tuesday that a walkie-talkie size metal detector was used "on a selective basis" at the boarding of the jetliner which was hijacked by three men armed with pistols, rifles and hand grenades.

hijackers, said they were unaware of any metal detection devices nor were they searched. The gunmen hijacked the plane over Birmingham Friday night and kept it hopping in three countries for two days before fleeing to Cuba with $2 million in ransom.

the plane in Memphis, said. "We weren't searched, nor did we go through a metal detector. "The only thing I saw was a sign on the wall saying we were subject to search," said Sent. "The first time we were searched was by the skyjackers."

The brief statement from Lonnie Turner, the airway's agent in Birmingham, Ala., came as the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said in Washington it was investigating how the gunmen got aboard the DC9.

Several passengers who boarded the airliner at Birmingham, along with the

Rita Tidwell, 22, a Delta Airlines stewardess flying Southern Flight 49 as a passenger, said she was "not aware" of any detection device and saw no one searched. She said, however, she probably wasn't checked because she was known to airport personnel. Richard Sent, 45, of Orlando, Fla., a passenger who boarded

An FAA spokesman said Southern could face a fine of $1,000 if investigators find the airways ignored FAA-ordered security procedures. Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III said in St. Louis Tuesday that FBI agents were following his personal order when they tried to stop the hijacked plane with gunfire at Orlando.

Failure to define 'terrorism' stalls UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The failure by the United Nations to accurately spell out what it means by the term "terrorism" appears to have stalled any efforts by concerned countries to deal with the problem in the international community.

The U.N. General Assembly's legal committee has taken up the issue but so far has been unable to come up with any concrete definition.

The committee was meeting again today in two sessions to deal with the subject.

The United States, among others, vehemently pressed the world body Monday to take up the problem of terrorism and decide how to deal with it before individual nations and groups decide to tackle the problem on their own.

However, there is growing opposition from non-aligned countries which contend that any sanctions against such activities would serve to thwart "national liberation movements."

Mohammed Sahnoun, assistant secretary general of the Organization of African Unity (OAU), said Tuesday that no statement would be acceptable as a result of the legal committee debate unless it carefully explained what was meant by terrorism.

Cuba also opposed any anti-terrorism move by the United Nations, saying it was nothing more than a camouflaged effort to put the damper on liberation movements. To illustrate its

Japan tries serviceman

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI) — James S. Benjamin, the first American serviceman to be tried for a major crime in Okinawa since the United States returned the Pacific Island to Japan, told a Japanese custody under terms of a status of forces agreement signed after the United States gave up its right to administer Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukyu islands last May.

The 25-year-old U.S. Marine stood trial at the Japanese Naha District Court on charges of fatally shooting Selyu Enokawa, 36, in a barracks at Camp Hansen in northern Okinawa.

Under Japanese criminal law, the maximum penalty for murder is death by hanging, but Benjamin was not expected to receive this sentence.

The trial, presided over by a panel of Japanese judges, followed heated discussions between Japanese and American military officials over who should have initial jurisdiction to try the American Marine, winner of a Bronze Star in the Vietnam War.

Benjamin, a Marine lance corporal from Austin, Texas, appeared serious while he heard the presentation by the Japanese prosecutors who charged him with murdering Enokawa with a M16 gun in a hallway at the camp barracks Sept. 20. Benjamin was defended by a Japanese lawyer while a U.S. Marine Corps legal officer watched as an observer. Benjamin had been held in

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES A day when there is considerable activity in every walk of life. The busy bees will be able to find flaws in whatever plans they may have, with the ability to eliminate them. Putting in at once a new workable plan of action can bring quickest possible success. Show appreciation to others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have new ideas and personalities to concentrate upon and should do so now to become more successful. One who does not think as you do has the information you want. Ask for it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Much reflection is required where new ideas are concerned. An expert can give you the data you need, if you handle tactfully. You have to be charming with this individual. Be relaxed.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you go to good friends for the aid you want, you will get it without delay, and can go ahead with your finest aims. Talk a civic matter over with a bigwig and get the proper slant.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to be more active in civic and career matters if you are to get the results you want at this time. A new project can be successful. Stop feeling sorry for yourself.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) If you converse with one whose thinking is different from yours, you can get the ideas you want at this time. You can gain from a fine, philosophical attitude. Plan a little trip.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk over whatever points of difference you have with mate and establish greater harmony between you. Whatever could jeopardize security should be handled quickly. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you show you understand the views of an associate, you can come to a quick understanding now. Express your own views honestly. Being of greater service to the public in general is fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have the enthusiasm now to do all that work ahead of you in an efficient manner. Do whatever will bring you better health. Put music into your life and feel happier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Once you have your work done, be sure to go out for recreation you enjoy. Don't leave any loose ends that could worry you and spoil your fun. Put a clever idea you have in operation.

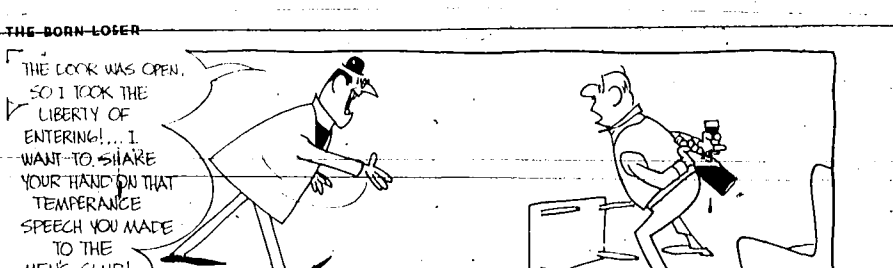

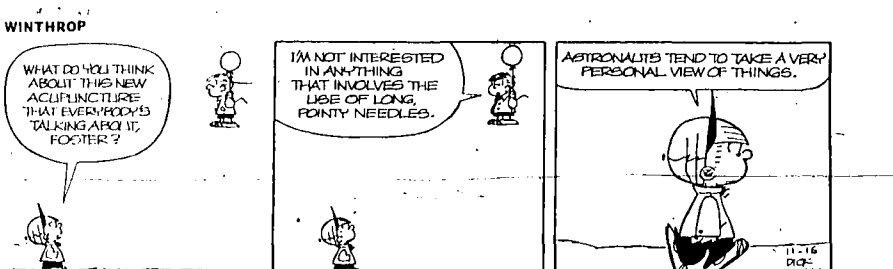

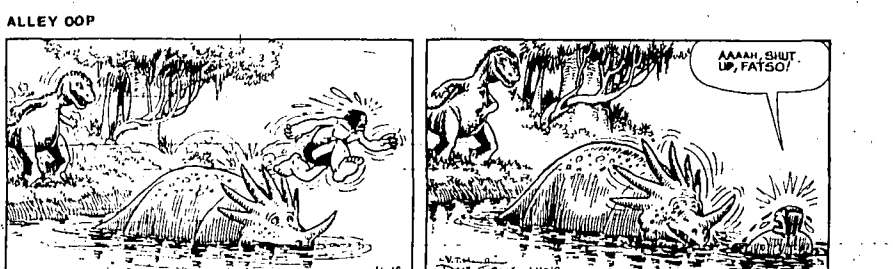

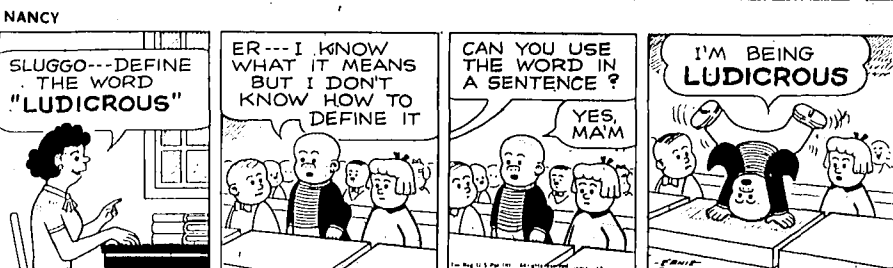

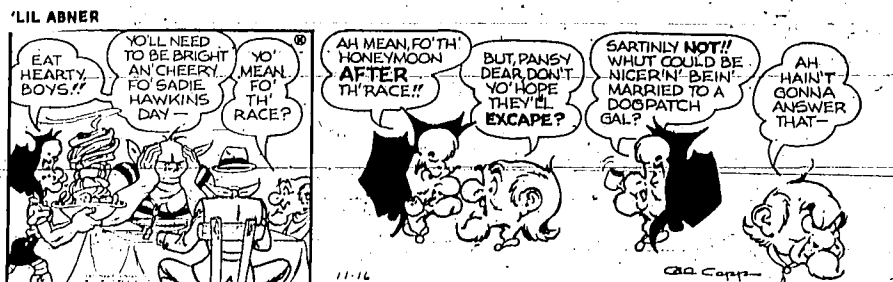

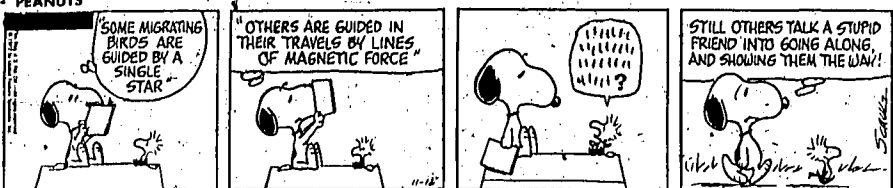

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have been neglecting matters at home and this could be a good day to do something constructive about that. Come to a far better meeting of minds with mate and kin.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking ideally and constructively. A plan you have can make you more affluent and happier. You have friends who will gladly go along with you. Avoid limelight tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can add to present abundance appreciably now if you go ahead with a plan you have in mind, instead of being so fearful. Talk it over with a prosperous person you know.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be one of those quick acting young people who has a good mind but requires the encouragement from parents to make any progress. The chart becomes a successful one, provided your progeny gets a good education that will give sureness of action and direction of purpose. There are many talents here, but some need to be weeded out to attain greatest success.

"The stars impact they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Ask the brightest boy at the dinner table to name the only Ph.D. ever elected president of the United States. If he doesn't say Woodrow Wilson, dock him dessert.

CLIENT wants to know whether a telephone's busy signal will turn into a ring if you wait long enough on the line. Can't happen. Ever. Circuits won't reconsider. Need to break the connection, dial again, always.

BUG EXPERTS contend mosquitoes are attracted by heat, carbon dioxide and estrogens. Therefore, it is theorized by some men of science, that person most likely to be bitten by a mosquito is a hot-blooded heavy-breathed female. If you are acquainted with any such, please query her on this matter. Further research would be useful.

QUERIES
Q. "What did the old Egyptians make their mummy coffins out of?"
A. Cypress, mostly. Quite wise. Don't know of any wood that lasts longer. Even dead cypress logs underwater for years are made into lumber.

Q. "WHAT'S the difference between a crane and the heron?"
A. Too many differences to enumerate. Main one, probably, is cranes are good to eat, but herons taste like bad bony fish.

IF YOU'RE going to insist that bananas, tomatoes and peas can indeed suffer strokes, heart attacks and clots in their veins, don't quote me. Quote Dr. Mark A. Staahmann and Dr. J. C. Walker of the University of Wisconsin. They said that.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange moved irregularly today as investors sat on the sidelines watching the market "catch its breath" following its recent sharp rise.

At noon, the Dow Jones Industrial average was up 0.60 at 999.02. Standard and Poor's 500 stock index was 114.01, up 0.11.

Declines edged advances, 650 to 690, among the 1,622 issues on the tape. Two-hour turnover came to 8,200,000 shares compared with 11,830,000 shares traded in the same period Wednesday.

The DJIA has risen over 60 points since Oct. 10 and finally crested over the 1,000 closing mark on Tuesday. Brokers said it was only natural the market experienced some profit taking and consolidation.

American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active issue, up 1/4 at 50 1/2 on 245,200 shares, including a block trade of 100,000 shares at 50 1/2. The issue has been trading at or near its high for the year recently.

New England Telephone & Telegraph was second, up 1/4 at 39 1/4 on 201,800 shares. AT&T said Wednesday it will offer net shareholders an exchange of common shares, increasing its ownership of NET.

Atlas Corp. was third, off 1/4 at 31 1/2 on 122,400 shares. The company recently reported a major find of uranium and vanadium in Utah.

Prices moved lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Successful Investment

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—My husband and I are interested in buying South African gold stocks. We are concerned with inflation and are interested in high income. What do you think of Blyvooruitzicht Gold Mining and Driefontein Gold Mining?

A—With world wide monetary conditions continuing unstable, shares of gold mining issues, since Americans are prohibited from buying gold outright, are a justifiable inflation hedge.

However, the price of free market gold has moved almost vertically since the first of the year from about $43 to $66 an ounce on the London Metal Exchange. This rise has carried over to stock prices as well — gold mining companies have tacked on about 50 per cent to their value, pushing many to new highs.

Free gold price reflects the balance between supply and demand. With the spread between demand and supply apparently broadening, the only way prices can go up is according to most experts.

South Africa, which produces 70 per cent of the free market gold, precipitated the upsurge in price when it announced that reserves were being built up and sales on the free market were no longer required under the IMF agreement.

Demand for gold from inflation-conscious Europeans, who are estimated to hold 5,000 tons of the yellow metal, is not expected to abate. On the contrary, some estimates of a 500 per cent increase in demand from this sector have been expounded. Industrial use world wide will probably remain constant — Japan is lifting all restrictions on this type of use as of next April.

Supply may get a boost from low-grade mines coming onstream, since at the higher price level, low-grade ore can be milled profitably. Another source of metal, the Soviet Union, annually produces 150 tons more than it needs.

Nonetheless, offsetting factors such as old mines being exhausted and continued hoarding should keep demand higher than supply.

Either of the two issues, ADTs traded OTC, would be suitable. Dividends after the 15 percent South African withholding tax are currently $1.37 a share for West Driefontein and $0.27 for Blyvooruitzicht.

Depot eyed at Kimberly

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News writer
KIMBERLY — A major item of discussion at the Kimberly City Council meeting Tuesday evening was consideration of acquisition of the old Kimberly railroad depot.

The council is currently considering converting the depot to public use as a Community hall. The possibility of donations from residents to defray moving and renovation costs was discussed as well as the use of a portion of the building as a community library.

An apartment in the building might be used to provide living quarters for the librarian, Mayor Von Nebeker said.

The structure has been offered by railroad officials to the city. It would have to be moved to city property on Madison Street.

Paul Corder, Twin Falls County Sheriff, presented a petition from residents of Jefferson and Center Streets to amend the city garbage pick up ordinance to allow alley service in that area. The council agreed to write an amendment.

The city requested an itemization of a bill for engineering work on the Northeast Subdivision submitted by Joe Haynes for JUB Engineers, Inc., Twin Falls.

All other bills were approved. Councilmen received a suggestion from Audrey Graham to update city water and sewer maps and agreed to consider the revision.

Wendell bond vote details formulated

WENDELL — Final details of the Nov. 21 Wendell School bond issue election were formulated Monday night by the school trustees.

The bond of $555,000 is proposed for financing a new gymnasium and additional classrooms for the junior high school.

This is the second attempt in less than a year by the school district to finance additional building facilities. About six months ago a similar proposal went down to defeat at the polls.

At that time the amount was $525,000 and growing costs of building construction have increased the figure in the six months period.

Architects for the proposed building are Thompson and Kolbo, Nampa. All residents of the district, 18 years of age or older may vote on the bond issue and absentee ballots are now available at the school administration office, Supt. Lawrence LaRue said.

Board members also heard a report on an earlier meeting to cover improved bus routes.

The Wendell and West Point Highway District board members met with the trustees to discuss improved turnarounds for the buses. Dick Eaton, bus contractor, also attended.
